

MOSCOW GIVES NAZIS WARNING

COUNTY GRAND JURY SIGNS 28 INDICTMENTS

17 Charges, Some Believed Pertaining to Bellville Morals Case, Held Secret.

IN SESSION FOR TWO DAYS

Arraignment of Defendants Set For Monday; Sheriff To Get Warrants.

Twenty-eight indictments, 17 of them secret, were returned late yesterday by the Richland county grand jury at the conclusion of a two-day session.

While there were no open indictments involving the Bellville morals case, it was learned that at least one, and possibly more, defendants in the case were named secretly by the jurors.

Assistant Prosecutor Charles Frecheater who has handled the Bellville case declined to comment on it today, adding that the secret "warrants will be on file tomorrow" with Sheriff Frank E. Robinson so arrests can be made.

Hearings for four of the seven persons held under charges in the Bellville case have been continued for several weeks by probate court without an explanation and it was believed today that the postponements were to make it possible for the cases to be taken before the grand jury.

Three men in the case have received workhouse sentences in probate court. One appealed the court's decision, however, and is free under bond.

The grand jury indicted three former enrollees in the Mansfield CCC camp on charges of attempted breaking and entering. The youths, who have been attempting to enlist in the army, are Ernest Wright, 18, Cleveland; Arthur Dickson, 18, Akron, and Oscole Shaw, 19, Cleveland.

County authorities expressed the belief today that the youths may still be able to get into the army if they win probation as first offenders. They are accused of attempting to break into a colored club on North Diamond street.

Hassell J. Meredith, Shelby, was indicted for armed robbery in connection with the robbery of a lunch stand in Shelby. The proprietor lost about $12 in the robbery.

Defendants named in other indictments and the charges against them are:

Ralph Cline, auto theft; Francis Head, grand larceny; Fred Minnie, issuing a check without funds; Richard Griffith, grand larceny; Russell Stier, carrying concealed weapons; Roy Hill and Vernon Skinner, auto theft.

The jurors failed to indict in one case. They examined 49 witnesses during the session.

DECISION DUE

Mackey To Decide Today on Labor Leader's Case.

Whether the departure of Paul Martin, Cleveland labor leader, from Ohio without permission from the state was in violation of his parole from Ohio penitentiary was to be decided today by William Mackey, chief of the state division of probation and parole.

Mackey, former chaplain at Ohio State reformatory where Martin once served, was to decide whether a subpoena from the federal government to attend a labor hearing in Washington was sufficient grounds for Martin to ignore state parole laws.

Federal District Attorney Emory B. Freed said yesterday in Cleveland, according to United Press dispatches, that the government had dropped prosecution of charges that Martin, president of the Die Workers union, failed to give his right name and age in registering for the draft.

Martin was arrested on an alleged violation of his parole after his workers went out on strike on jobs covering governmental national defense orders.

Defense Mediation Board Reveals Agreement at Bohn Aluminum.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The defense mediation board today announced an agreement to end the dispute between the United Automobile Workers (CIO) and the Bohn Aluminum and Brass Co., Detroit, which makes bearings, castings and forging for army and navy planes.

Terms of the agreement, signed by company and union representatives, were not disclosed pending a ratification meeting to be held by 4,600 union members of Detroit Sunday.

USE AFL LABOR ON 30-N JOBS

Builders of Viaduct, Underpass Agree With Trades Council on Rates of Pay.

All construction work on the underpass and viaduct on U. S. Route 30-N, west of the city, will be done by AFL labor, and employment will be under the regulation of the Mansfield Building Trades council.

This was announced today by T. F. Geddes, assistant business agent of the council, who said officials of the Lombardo Construction company, which has the contract for the two jobs, and Building Trades council officials, reached an agreement giving the council complete jurisdiction in labor employment.

Prevailing rates for the approximately 150 men to be employed upon the project as announced by Geddes are labor, 65 cents per hour; carpenters, $1.15; cement finishers, $1.25; electricians, $1.35; and operating engineers, approximately $1.50, Geddes stated.

The Lombardo company will sublet a large part of the work to Mansfield concerns, Geddes said. Definite information concerning the Mansfield contractor has not been received from the Cleveland firm, Geddes said.

Contract for the grade crossing elimination project, was awarded three weeks ago to the Cleveland firm. The construction company's bid of $497,441.95 was $8,835 lower than that of three Mansfield firms bidding together.

The elimination project includes the construction of an overhead crossing where the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crosses West Fourth street, an underpass on the Erie railroad a mile farther west on Route 30-N, and paving of the strip between the crossings.

'Life' to Carry Graduation Pix In Next Issue

Life magazine's next issue, available a week from today, will carry three pages of pictures depicting the Mansfield Senior high school commencement exercises.

This became known today in a letter received by Miss Patty Bancroft, 1941 graduate, from Alfred Eisenstaedt, Life photographer, who covered the event. It was Patty, who first suggested to school officials that the national magazine with a circulation of 3,000,000 be asked to photograph the event.

Life's editors agreed after investigation showed that the Mansfield commencement would be typical of that in a mid-western American city.

Eisenstaedt and Miss Lisbeth de Morrini, an editorial associate, spent one week in Mansfield taking photographs of pre-commencement activities and the graduation of 282 students held in the school stadium.

WAYS, MEANS COMMITTEE IN NEW RATE VOTE

Low Bracket Payers Hit By Plan To Raise Over Two Billions.

BILLION MORE NEEDED

Estate and Gift Levies To Be Boosted Along With Charge on Commodities.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Having approved a new personal income tax schedule which will triple the tax burden on the lowest bracket payers, house ways and means committee members today face the problem of raising an additional $850,000,000 in unpopular excise levies.

The committee voted new rates for individuals and corporations designed to raise an additional $2,400,000,000 yearly and then adjourned until Monday when it will seek ways and means to add another $1,100,000,000 to this to attain the tax goal.

Members said this will be done by boosting estate and gift taxes about as high as they can to net some $150,000,000 and then bring the so-called "hidden" taxes on such commodities as gasoline, beer, liquor and tobacco.

Meanwhile, the tax experts conceded there will be opposition when the bill comes to the floor, probably next month, to the tremendous boost in the lower bracket personal income levies.

Although the increases are not as drastic as was previously suggested by the treasury, the committee voted to impose surtaxes starting at 5 per cent on the first dollar of taxable income, and to graduate this surtax up to the 75 per cent which is now paid by persons earning $5,000,000 a year.

This surtax will be over and above the normal 4 per cent tax base rate and means that the little fellow will pay three times what he paid this year, the middle income earner about twice, and the top just a little more.

ORDERS BAN

President Places Petroleum Under Export Control.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—In the face of a threatened east coast oil and gas shortage, President Roosevelt today directed that all petroleum products be placed under export control.

A brief White House statement announced the oil restriction. It declared: "The president announced today that to meet a threatened shortage of petroleum products in the eastern United States he had directed the administrator of export control (Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes) to place all petroleum products under control and to permit exports from the Eastern Seaboard exports to the British Empire, Egypt, and the western hemisphere, since supplies to these destinations are dependent in part on shipment from eastern ports.

Plymouth to Vote July 23 on Muny Light Plant Proposal

Voters in Plymouth will go to the polls Wednesday, July 23, to ballot on a proposal to build a municipal light plant in the village, the Richland county board of elections had decided today.

The election board had two requests from the Plymouth council for special referendums, one seeking the July 23 date and the other asking that the proposal be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 4 election.

Voters in the July 23 referendum will determine only whether Carl J. Simon and Associates, Van Wert, engineers, shall draw up plans for a light plant. If the proposal is approved, it is expected that the village council then will decide whether it is advisable to go ahead with the project.

The campaign preceding the July vote is expected to be one of the most spirited in Plymouth in recent years. Village officials, backed by two groups of electors, are at disagreement over the light plant proposal.

The board of public affairs asserting that a $90,000 bond issue, including interest, would be necessary to finance construction of the plant, is opposed to the municipal plant idea. On the other side, Mayor William M. Johns is heading a movement in behalf of a municipal plant. The village now has a contract with the Ohio Power company for the current it uses.

DEADLINE NEAR ON ENLISTMENT

Applicants For Membership In State Guard Can Enroll Today, Tomorrow.

Capt. Glen L. Bierly, commander of the Mansfield unit of the Ohio State guard, Company F, announced today that final enlistments before mustering will be held today from 7 to 9 p. m., and tomorrow from 1 to 4 p. m. at the state armory on Ashland road.

More than 45 of the 50 required members have enlisted for service here but Bierly said that enlistments would not be limited as it is expected that several men will not be accepted because of physical examinations.

Adjutant General Whittier S. Bird said in Columbus today that he anticipated mustering in most of them.

City Employees Take Over Job of Clearing Piles of Garbage.

McKEESPORT, Pa.—(AP)—Striking city service employees who walked out four days ago demanding wage increases and union recognition went back to work today under a compromise agreement.

The task of clearing away heaps of debris and garbage which had collected during the walkout was begun almost immediately. Street and sanitation department employees were on the job before sundown last night, while the remainder of the 178 strikers resumed work today.

Italy Joins Action; Families of Americans Wonder If They Must Leave Too.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON—(AP)—The White House today announced President Roosevelt will send a highly important special message to congress during the afternoon. White House officials would not divulge the nature of the document in advance.

(By Associated Press) BERLIN—Leland B. Morris, the United States charge d'affaires, discussed increasingly tense German-American relations at the foreign office today as United States consulates in Germany and several German-conquered European nations prepared to shut their doors at the request of the Nazi government.

Many problems urgently requiring clarification were said to have been raised by the German request and by other issues, including the sinking of the American steamer Robin Moor.

Besides the consulates, the German request applied also to American Express company offices in Germany, occupied France, Norway, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Serbia and Greece, and they, too, were getting ready to close.

Many technical questions are involved in closing of the consulates, including caring for French and English interests. For the last 18 months these have been a large part of American consular activity. Who will do this work and what nation will look after American interests remain to be adjusted. It was estimated that from 75 to 80 American consular officials and employees were affected by the closing orders.

Some of these have families in Germany or the occupied nations. Whether they will be removed in a body was not decided.

It was also estimated that "several" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

RATION RUBBER

OPM Announces Program To Control All Imports.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government moved today to control all imports of rubber and ration it to manufacturers producing automobile tires and thousands of civilian consumer items.

Under a broad program to conserve for national defense and build up adequate stockpiles which may be depleted if far eastern imports are curtailed, the office of production management announced that it will reduce the amount of rubber given to processors for civilian production.

This means a reduction in the output of automobile tires, inner tubes, boots, shoes, garden hose, gloves, flooring, nipples, bathing suits and caps, washers, gaskets and approximately 30,000 other consumer items for the duration of the emergency.

Paper Asserts 'Enemy' Won't Cross Border

Soviet Capital Calm, London Uneasy At Prospect of Forced Bargain as RAF Pushes All-Out Attempt to Blast German Invasion Bases.

(By Associated Press) Informed quarters in London today disclosed that the RAF's nine-day series of blasts at channel "invasion ports" and the German Ruhr was an all-out attempt to smash preparations for a big Nazi push against England expected as soon as Germany settles matters with Russia.

In what may have been a pointed warning to Germany, a Soviet government newspaper, Izvestia, said: "Neither through the forests, nor the steppes, mountains nor seas will the enemy ever step across the forbidden boundary."

While Moscow was outwardly calm, an atmosphere of uneasiness prevailed in London. If Adolf Hitler should strike a bloodless bargain with Soviet Premier Josef V. Stalin, it was said, Britain must expect a swift blow from Nazi invasion bases across the channel.

These sources declared that Britain's intensive aerial offensive, carried out by hundreds of planes, was aimed at a dual objective:

1. To slow the German war effort by crippling the reich's industrial output, particularly synthetic oil.

2. To snarl the transportation routes from base pools of material and personnel which the Germans will need when a full-scale offensive against Britain starts.

For four successive days, the RAF has carried out strong daylight attacks on Nazi-held channel harbors, camps and airfields that would be used for invasion, it was said. Cologne and Duesseldorf, frequent RAF targets, were the objects of last night's latest raids.

How quickly Adolf Hitler would settle affairs with Russia remained to be seen. Dispatches from Moscow said there was no indication that the U. S. S. R. expected an invasion, although Europe's capitals for days have echoed with rumors that Germany was massing troops on her eastern frontier for a possible drive into the Soviet Union.

A British exchange telegraph dispatch quoted foreign reports as saying Russia's ambassador to Germany had seen Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

CHECK-UP: Admiralty Totals May Ship Losses at 4th High

(By United Press) LONDON—The admiralty reported today that shipping losses in May were the fourth highest of the war with the sinking of 461,328 tons.

The admiralty issued revised tabulations disclosing that British shipping losses in April were the highest of the war with a total of 134 ships totalling 581,251 tons. Previously April losses had been placed at nearly 100,000 tons less, 488,124 tons.

The losses for April include ships sunk in the Greek campaign. Losses for May include the Crete losses.

The loss of 98 ships and 461,328 tons in May brought the grand total since start of the war to 1,639 ships of 6,712,807 tons.

Of this amount 1008 were British ships of 4,302,445 tons, 314 were allied of 1,411,543 tons, and 317 were neutral of 988,819 tons. This brought the monthly average since the start of the war to 319,157 tons. The average in the last 12 months has been 441,750 tons per month.

The admiralty revised a number of monthly figures on losses previously announced and reported that the totals for July, 1940, are now 104 ships of 400,353 tons, for January 1941, 59 ships of 309,731 tons, February 1941, 87 ships of 339,833 tons, and March 1941, 122 ships of 505,251 tons.

In most instances these were upward revisions of only a few thousand tons per month.

The admiralty said that the sharp upward revision of the April loss figures was due to further reports of losses in the evacuation of Greece, largely representing Greek ships.

It broke down the May losses as follows: British 73 ships of 355,032 tons. Allied 20 ships 92,201 tons and neutral 5 ships, 14,095 tons. "It should be noted that the above figures include losses suffered in the Eastern Mediterranean during military operations," the admiralty said.

Finland will never do anything dishonorable or anything wrong." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

DEADLINE NEAR ON ENLISTMENT

Applicants for Membership in State Guard Can Enroll Today, Tomorrow.

units of the new guard by next week when enlistment figures will be available.

The first unit was sworn in last night at Chillicothe and Bird attended the ceremonies. The company was mustered in by Co. Wade
C. Christy, regimental commander.

Officers informed Bird that the company quota was easily filled and that a list of alternates was also compiled. Ages of men in the company ranged from 18 to 51.

The oldest was Daniel Gutekunst, 51, who served in the navy from 1907-11, and with the U. S.
army medical corps during the World war.

During the next two weeks, Bird said other guard units will be mustered in at Kenton, Piqua, Eaton, Marysville and Columbus. Other units will be sworn in about at Delaware and Coshocton, he said.

Bird disclosed that guard officers' uniforms will be identical with those of the U. S. army except distinguishing insignia. He said a state seal will be added to the device worn on the cap.

The service coat and overcoat will be marked with infantry blue braids on both sleeves. Instead of having a "U. S." insignia on his lapel, the state guard officer will wear "Ohio" on the right side of the collar and the insignia of the

Insignia of rank will be the same as the regular army. Buttons will be replicas of the state seal.

NEWPORT, Ky. — (U.P.) — Mrs.
Emma McBride, 45, and her 25-year-old son, Joseph Curry, both of Detroit, today were bound to the Campbell county grand jury on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Mc-Bride's three-year-old daughter in 1936.

Claude McBride, father of the child, charged that his estranged wife and stepson had conspired to burn their former home at Fort Thomas in order to collect $1,300 in insurance. The child perished in a fire that destroyed the Mc-
Bride's home in 1936.

In court yesterday, Judge Odie Bertelman ordered Mrs. McBride and her son held to the county grand jury pending further in-

MOSCOW GIVES NAZIS WARNING

COUNTY GRAND JURY SIGNS 28 INDICTMENTS

17 Charges, Some Believed Pertaining to Bellville Morals Case, Held Secret.

Arraignment of Defendants Set For Monday; Sheriff To Get Warrants.

Twenty-eight indictments, 17 of them secret, were returned late yesterday by the Richland county grand jury at the conclusion of a two-day session.

While there were no open indictments involving the Bellville morals case, it was learned that at least one, and possibly more, defendants in the case were named secretly by the jurors.

Assistant Prosecutor Charles Freese, who has handled the Bellville case, declined to comment on it today, adding that the secret "warrants will be on file tomorrow" with Sheriff Frank E. Robinson so arrests can be made.

Hearings for four of the seven persons held under charges in the Bellville case have been continued for several weeks by probate court without an explanation and it was believed today that the postponements were to make it possible for the cases to be taken before the grand jury.

Three men in the case have received workhouse sentences in probate court. One appealed the court's decision, however, and is free under bond.

The grand jury indicted three former enrollees in the Mansfield CCC camp on charges of attempted breaking and entering. The youths, who have been attempting to enlist in the army, are Ernest Wright, 18, Cleveland; Arthur Dickson, 18, Akron, and Oscole Shaw, 19, Cleveland.

County authorities expressed the belief today that the youths may still be able to get into the army if they win probation as first offenders. They are accused of attempting to break into a colored club on North Diamond street.

Hassell J. Meredith, Shelby, was indicted for armed robbery in connection with the robbery of a lunch stand in Shelby. The proprietor lost about $12 in the robbery.

Defendants named in other indictments and the charges against them are:

The jurors failed to indict in one case. They examined 49 witnesses during the session.

Mackey To Decide Today on Labor Leader's Case.

Whether the departure of Paul Martin, Cleveland labor leader, from Ohio without permission from the state was in violation of his parole from Ohio penitentiary was to be decided today by William Mackey, chief of the state division of probation and parole.

Mackey, former chaplain at Ohio State reformatory where Martin once served, was to decide whether a subpoena from the federal government to attend a labor hearing in Washington was sufficient grounds for Martin to ignore state parole laws.

Federal District Attorney Emerich B. Freed said yesterday in Cleveland, according to United Press dispatches, that the government had dropped prosecution of charges that Martin, president of the Die Workers union, failed to give his right name and age in registering for the draft.

Martin was arrested on an alleged violation of his parole after his workers went out on strike on jobs covering governmental national defense orders.

USE AFL LABOR ON 30-N JOBS

Builders of Viaduct, Underpass Agree With Trades Council on Rates of Pay.

All construction work on the underpass and viaduct on U. S. Route 30-N, west of the city, will be done by AFL labor, and employment will be under the regulation of the Mansfield Building Trades council.

This was announced today by T. F. Geddes, assistant business agent of the council, who said officials of the Lombardo Construction company, which has the contract for the two jobs, and Building Trades council officials, reached an agreement giving the council complete jurisdiction in labor employment.

Prevailing rates for the approximately 150 men to be employed upon the project are announced by Geddes as labor, 65 cents per hour; carpenters, $1.15; cement finishers, $1.25; electricians, $1.25; and operating engineers, approximately $1.50, Geddes stated.

The Lombardo company will sublet a large part of the work to Mansfield concerns, Geddes said. Definite information concerning the Mansfield contractor has not been received from the Cleveland firm, Geddes said.

Contract for the grade crossing elimination project was awarded three weeks ago to the Cleveland firm. The construction company's bid of $497,441.95 was $8,835 lower than that of three Mansfield firms bidding together.

The elimination project includes the construction of an overhead crossing where the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crosses West Fourth street, an underpass on the Erie railroad a mile farther west on Route 30-N, and paving of the strip between the crossings.

'Life' to Carry Graduation Pix In Next Issue

Life magazine's next issue, available a week from today, will carry three pages of pictures depicting the Mansfield Senior high school commencement exercises.

This became known today in a letter received by Miss Patty Bancroft, 1941 graduate, from Alfred Eisenstaedt, Life photographer, who covered the event.

It was Patty, who first suggested to school officials that the national magazine be asked to photograph the event.

Life's editors agreed after investigation showed that the Mansfield commencement would be typical of that in a mid-western American city.

Eisenstaedt and Miss Lisbeth de Morrin, an editorial associate, spent one week in Mansfield taking photographs of pre-commencement activities and the graduation of 282 students held in the school stadium.

WAYS, MEANS COMMITTEE IN NEW RATE VOTE

Low Bracket Payers Hit By Plan To Raise Over Two Billions.

Estate and Gift Levies To Be Boosted Along With Charge on Commodities.

(By International News Service) WASHINGTON—Having approved a new personal income tax schedule which will triple the tax burden on the lowest bracket payers, house ways and means committee members today face the problem of raising an additional $850,000,000 in unpopular excise levies.

The committee voted new rates for individuals and corporations designed to raise an additional $2,400,000,000 yearly and then adjourned until Monday when it will seek ways and means to add another $1,400,000,000 to this to attain the tax goal.

Members said this will be done by boosting estate and gift taxes about as high as they can to net some $150,000,000 and then obtain $850,000,000 or more by raising the so-called "hidden" taxes on such commodities as gasoline, beer, liquor and tobacco.

Meanwhile, the tax experts conceded there will be opposition when the bill comes to the floor, probably next month, to the tremendous boost in the lower bracket personal income levies.

Although the increases are not as drastic as was previously suggested by the treasury, the committee voted to impose surtaxes starting at 5 per cent on the first dollar of taxable income, and to graduate this surtax up to the 75 per cent which is now paid by persons earning $5,000,000, a year.

This surtax will be over and above the normal 4 per cent tax base rate and means that the little fellow will pay three times what he paid this year, the middle income earner about twice, and the top just a little more.

ORDERS BAN

President Places Petroleum Under Export Control.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—In the face of a threatened east coast oil and gas shortage, President Roosevelt today directed that all petroleum products be placed under export control.

A brief White House statement announced the oil restriction. It declared: "The president announced today that to meet a threatened shortage of petroleum products in the eastern United States he had directed the administrator of export control (Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes) to place all petroleum products under control and to permit exports from the Eastern Seaboard exports to the British Empire, Egypt, and the western hemisphere, since supplies to these destinations are dependent in part on shipment from eastern ports.

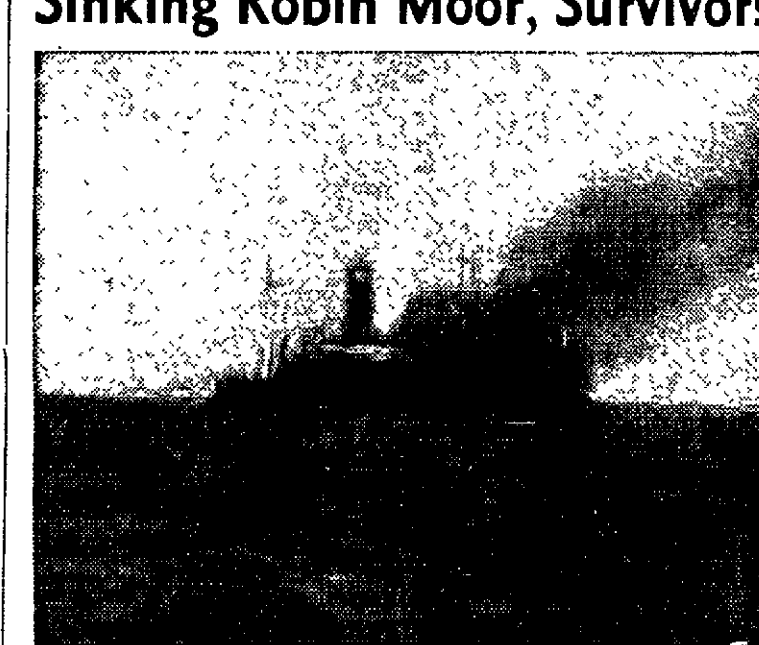

Plymouth to Vote July 23 on Muny Light Plant Proposal

Voters in Plymouth will go to the polls Wednesday, July 23, to ballot on a proposal to build a municipal light plant in the village, the Richland county board of elections had decided today.

The election board had two requests from the Plymouth council for special referendums, one seeking the July 23 date and the other asking that the proposal be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 4 election.

Voters in the July 23 referendum will determine only whether Carl J. Simon and Associates, Van Wert, engineers, shall draw up plans for a light plant. If the proposal is approved, it is expected that the village council then will decide

Italy Joins Action; Families of Americans Wonder If They Must Leave Too.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON—(INS)—The White House today announced President Roosevelt will send a highly important special message to congress during the afternoon. White House officials would not divulge the nature of the document in advance.

(By Associated Press) BERLIN—Leland B. Morris, the United States charge d'affaires, discussed increasingly tense German-American relations at the foreign office today as United States consulates in Germany and seven German-conquered European nations prepared to shut their doors at the request of the Nazi government.

Many problems urgently requiring clarification were said to have been raised by the German request and by other issues, including the sinking of the American steamer Robin Moor.

Besides the consulates, the German request applied also to American Express company offices in Germany, occupied France, Norway, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Serbia and Greece, and they, too, were getting ready to close.

Many technical questions are involved in closing of the consulates, including caring for French and English interests. For the last 18 months these have been a large part of American consular activity.

Who will do this work and what nation will look after American interests remain to be adjusted. It was estimated that from 75 to 80 American consular officials and employees were affected by the closing orders.

Some of these have families in Germany or the occupied nations. Whether they will be removed in a body was not decided. It was also estimated that "several" (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

OPM Announces Program To Control All Imports.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government moved today to control all imports of rubber and ration it to manufacturers producing automobile tires and thousands of civilian consumer items.

Under a broad program to conserve for national defense and build up adequate stockpiles which may be depleted if far eastern imports are curtailed, the office of production management announced that it will reduce the amount of rubber given to processors for civilian production.

This means a reduction in the output of automobile tires, inner tubes, boots, shoes, garden hose, gloves, flooring, nipples, bathing suits and caps, washers, gaskets and approximately 30,000 other consumer items for the duration of the emergency.

Paper Asserts 'Enemy' Won't Cross Border

(By Associated Press)

Informed quarters in London today disclosed that the RAF's nine-day series of blasts at channel "invasion ports" and the German Ruhr was an all-out attempt to smash preparations for a big Nazi push against England expected as soon as Germany settles matters with Russia.

In what may have been a pointed warning to Germany, a Soviet government newspaper, Izvestia, said: "Neither through the forests, nor the steppes, mountains nor seas will the enemy ever step across the forbidden boundary."

While Moscow was outwardly calm, an atmosphere of uneasiness prevailed in London. If Adolf Hitler should strike a bloodless bargain with Soviet Premier Josef V. Stalin, it was said, Britain must expect a swift blow from Nazi invasion bases across the channel.

These sources declared that Britain's intensive aerial offensive, carried out by hundreds of planes, was aimed at a dual objective:

1. To slow the German war effort by crippling the reich's industrial output, particularly synthetic oil.

2. To snarl the transportation routes from base pools of material and personnel which the Germans will need when a full-scale offensive against Britain starts.

For four successive days, the RAF has carried out strong daylight attacks on Nazi-held channel harbors, camps and airdromes that would be used for invasion, it was said. Cologne and Dusseldorf, frequent RAF targets, were the objects of last night's latest raids.

How quickly Adolf Hitler would settle affairs with Russia remained to be seen. Dispatches from Moscow said there was no indication that the U. S. S. R. expected an invasion, although Europe's capitals for days have echoed with rumors that Germany was massing troops on her eastern frontier for a possible drive into the Soviet Union.

CHECK-UP: Admiralty Totals May Ship Losses at 4th High

(By United Press)

LONDON—The admiralty reported today that shipping losses in May were the fourth highest of the war with the sinking of 461,328 tons.

The admiralty issued revised tabulations disclosing that British shipping losses in April were the highest of the war with a total of 134 ships totalling 581,251 tons. Previously April losses had been placed at nearly 100,000 tons less, 488,124 tons.

The losses for April include ships sunk in the Greek campaign. Losses for May include the Crete losses.

The loss of 98 ships and 461,328 tons in May brought the grand total since start of the war to 1,689 ships of 6,712,807 tons.

Of this amount 1008 were British ships of 4,302,445 tons, 314 were allied of 1,411,543 tons, and 317 were neutral of 988,819 tons. This brought the monthly average since the start of the war to 319,137 tons. The average in the last 12 months has been 441,750 tons per month.

The admiralty revised a number of monthly figures on losses previously announced and reported that the totals for July, 1940, are now 104 ships of 400,353 tons, for January 1941, 59 ships of 309,731 tons, February 1941, 87 ships of 339,833 tons, and March 1941, 122 ships of 505,251 tons.

In most instances these were upward revisions of only a few thousand tons per month. The admiralty said that the sharp upward revision of the April loss figures was due to further reports of losses in the evacuation of Greece, largely representing Greek ships.

It broke down the May losses as follows: British 73 ships of 355,032 tons, Allied 20 ships 92,201 tons and neutral 5 ships, 14,095 tons. "It should be noted that the above figures include losses suffered in the Eastern Mediterranean during military operations," the admiralty said.

ADMISSION: Dispatch Hints Finland Facing War Re-Entry

(Editor's Note: An official admission that Finland, defeated a little over a year ago by the gigantic Russian army, may again be brought into the war by circumstances beyond her control is made in the following exclusive dispatch to International News Service by Elias Erkkö, former Finnish foreign minister.)

By ELIAS ERKKO
Former Foreign Minister of Finland.
(Written Expressly For INS.)
HELSINKI—The people of Finland—imbued with a love of peace—unanimously desire to remain outside of the war, of great powers now raging in Europe.
Finland has never broken its pledges.
She has never violated a neighborly peace. She has and will keep to her agreements if her neighbors will do the same.

We cannot close our eyes to the international situation which is not in our control.
The situation may—in spite of Finland—turn in such a way as to menace our sovereignty, peace and liberty, forcing us to defend ourselves.
If national danger is imminent, we shall do our duty standing on Finnish ground according to our own interests, at the same time observing all honor and justice in their international meaning.
Finland will never do anything dishonorable or anything wrong.

MOSCOW GIVES SHARP WARNING THROUGH PAPER

British were attacking the oasis of Guts, on which Damascus is situated, but said that tank-led Allied infantry still were several miles outside the city itself.

Vichy reports said Indian troops had managed to penetrate French defense lines at one or two points south of the city but were quickly mopped up.

British Middle East headquarters said Imperial troops had made "local gains" in the drive on Damascus but acknowledged that numerically superior Vichy forces were counter-attacking sharply south of the capital.

On the Mediterranean coast, British headquarters said "Australian troops are slowly advancing in the face of stiff resistance" in their push toward the Lebanese capital, Beirut.

In London, British and Free French spokesmen again pictured the fall of Damascus as but "a matter of hours," a phrase they have used before in describing the status of the stubborn Syrian capital. Allied forces were said to be hammering at it from three sides.

Unconfirmed reports of a rift between Germany and Soviet Russia still circulated in Europe. Apprehensive Finland, convinced that any conflict between those two great powers would be sure to involve her, enacted defense measures and called up army reservists.

In Washington, several senators commented that threatening German gestures toward Russia might win the Nazis vast new supplies of raw materials, prolonging the war and increasing the chances of American involvement.

For the ninth consecutive night, British bombers struck at German industrial targets and at the German invasion bases along the Nazi-occupied channel coast of France and Belgium.

The comparative lull over Britain continued, although a communiqué acknowledged that a few bombs were dropped, inflicting some damage and a few casualties.

Turks Promise Nazis Won't Cross Nation

ANKARA, Turkey.—(AP)—Turkey has given Great Britain assurances that it will never permit German war materials or troops to cross its territory, it was said authoritatively today.

The assurances were given by Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu to Sir Hugh Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, the British ambassador, yesterday, the day Turkey signed a friendship pact with Germany, it was said.

Informants said the assurances would be confirmed to Great Britain in written form.

Germans here wore swastika emblems for the first time today. It was forecast that the immediate result of the Turkish-German treaty would be an increase in trade exchanges, already large.

Treasury School Student Hurtles From 29th Floor of Hotel.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—A man identified by police as Emory Miller, 44, Chicago, was dead today, the victim of a plunge from the 29th floor window of a Brooklyn hotel.

Police said he was a student in a special U. S. treasury school being conducted at the hotel for ex-service men. He was one of 300 men taking a 45-day course for collectors of internal revenue.

MINERAL HUNTS GO ON AT NIGHT

Hundreds of Claims Staked Out in New Search For Tungsten.

FALLON, Nev.—(AP)—Night prospectors with fluorescent lamps are hunting scheelite, from which tungsten, a strategic war mineral, is obtained in a 20-mile belt in this area.

Hundreds of claims have been staked out during recent months. The region including Pershing, Churchill and northern Mineral counties, according to mining engineers, shows more mineralization from metamorphic contact than any other opened in the Far West.

The nation's largest tungsten producer, the Nevada-Massachusetts company at Mill City, was cited as being near the north end of this mineralized region. Tungsten is used in steel manufacture.

The night prospectors hunt scheelite with lamps after first having scanned the hillsides for granite and limestone contacts. In the daytime they spot croppings at the contact points, later to give them the lamp test at night.

The lamps at night bring out luminous spots of scheelite. Cox last year discovered several croppings of scheelite south of the Dan Tucker mine near Sand Springs and since then prospectors have been busy south to and beyond Dead Horse Wells. Location work has been completed on many of the claims.

Several of the ledges have assayed one per cent or better. Picked samples have shown extremely high values.

Cox has located 31 croppings along two groups of claims which extend in an east and west direction for two miles. Most of these lie in masses rather than in veins, one bulk standing 20 feet high and 20 feet across. The exposed rocks were thickly sprinkled with bright fleckles about the size of a half dollar. Another series of croppings Cox pointed out was 600 feet long. This appeared to be a vein in the lime-granite contact.

Production is already under way at the end on Cox' east group of claims, where Walter P. Eastman of Utah has been taking out ore for two months. He has built a road up a gulch to the lease where he has a tramway to a truck-loading station.

Other prospectors have been taking out ore to be handled in nearby mills.

CANDIDATES LACKING MARYSVILLE.—(AP)—There will be no primary election in Marysville in August because there are no contests in either party for city offices. As a result, Union county will be saved about $800.

STOCKHOLM.—(AP)—An official order by Finnish authorities in Helsinki today said that all men from 18 to 44 years old must register with military authorities at the earliest possible moment.

Oh, For the Life of a Censor

The very, very pleasant possibilities of a life as a beach censor cannot be doubted after one looks at this picture. Because of his knowledge of fashions—he plays a male lead in fashion movie shorts—Lifeguard Ken Griffith, has been chosen, as beach censor for Ventnor City, N. J. Dorothea Mae Conlen passed Griffith's test without trouble, but we suspect that the beach censor's mind was not on the tape measure.

Ex-Foreign Minister Indicates Reserves Called Up To Safeguard Nation.

It will not sell its honor or its peace for any price. Reservists have been called up for the express purpose of safeguarding the interests outlined above.

The feeling of my people is one of complete unity and calm. Editor's Note: Helsinki dispatches yesterday told of all Finnish reserve officers and men being called to active duty for maneuvers and as a precautionary measure.

At the same time, Stockholm advisers reported vast Russian troop movements.

The Helsinki radio station broadcast a statement saying that "the day of liberation is at hand."

The sorrow of the Finnish campaign in which our heroic country succumbed to brutal numbers is about to be wiped away. We look forward confidently. The hand which gave Finland liberty (a reference to Germany's terms to Russia under the treaty of Brest-Litovsk) is again raised to help Finland. This broadcast coincided with a flood of rumors and reports that Germany was about to attack Russia.)

READY TO CLOSE U.S. CONSULATES

A great number of problems immediately arose. United States embassy spokesmen were unable to say to what extent consular work now would fall in their laps or in what way the liquidation of some 21 offices would proceed.

"We haven't received any instructions as yet," they said. The fate of American property, such as household goods stored with the American Express company, also was a question mark.

Another question was what would happen to the thousands of Jews who have on file applications for permits to enter the United States. A great part of consular work in recent months has been to handle cases of emigrating Jews.

Jews wondered whether the closing of the consulates would hamper their chances of obtaining visas. German authorities are on record as determined to rid the country of all Jews.

German's reprisal to the U. S. action came as a surprise to many here, because there had been indications the Nazis would not retaliate in this fashion. The German news service Dienst aus Deutschland which has close connection with the foreign office, said only two days ago that "in the matter of the closing of the consulates Germany obviously did not care to resort to the cheap reprisal customary in such cases."

Meanwhile, Americans were awaiting disclosure of the nature of Germany's steps in answer to the freezing of Axis funds in the United States. The government announced Tuesday it was taking such action.

This handling marked a departure in the practice of the controlled press regarding recent developments in American German relations. Such news generally has been relegated to an inside page, an obscure corner, or ignored.

The fact that Italy also ordered closing of U. S. consulates there was taken as an indication that the action was intended to be a demonstration of Axis solidarity.

Without awaiting an answer to her protest against the closing of German consulates in the United States, Germany struck back with a similar step here, charging the American representatives with espionage, propaganda and other activities hostile to the Reich.

The German government's action was due to circumstances persisting "over a long time," authorized sources asserted, and had no direct relation to the United States' similar action.

Indirectly, however, the American action "made it unnecessary to respect any longer international usages," by which subversive activities by American officials were tolerated, had come to an end, these sources said.

"For a long time already the necessity of closing American consulates had become apparent," they continued. "We have evidence that information gathered by American consular officials was directly submitted to the British secret service in whose behalf they acted."

"Nevertheless, with the greatest magnanimity and with the most broad-minded consideration for international usage we refrained from putting an end to the condition until it became more and more unbearable."

"Then suddenly, without the least apparent or understandable reason, the United States government ordered closure of German consulates, one big news agency and so forth. As indicated in our protest, the closure was legally justified."

"After America's action, however, there was no longer any reason for us to continue our magnanimous attitude toward American machinations in Germany."

"Regulation had to follow which does justice to the existing situation. Our action, however, was not one of reprisal."

Asked whether a reply had yet been received to the German protest, authorized sources said not as far as they knew, but if the protest were rejected there was nothing to do except acquiesce in the American demand.

All American citizens working in consulates and in the American Express company offices were ordered to leave before July 15.

(The Italian government, which reserved decision with respect to American Express company offices, also fixed July 15 as the final date for the closing of U. S. consulates. Consular employees were asked to leave Italy and Italian-controlled territory because of their "attitudes and activities.")

The entire Berlin press gave Question Value of Diplomatic Relations

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The state department today is giving active consideration to the question of whether continued maintenance of diplomatic relations with Germany and Italy will serve any useful purpose.

This does not mean any decision has been reached to sever relations with the two leading Axis powers. That decision will be left up to President Roosevelt.

However, those who are charged with handling American foreign policy at the state department feel that relations with Germany and Italy are deteriorating so rapidly that the latest development—the Italo-German order expelling American consuls from practically all Axis-controlled territory in Europe—calls for consideration of the broader aspects of America's diplomatic relationship with the two European Axis powers.

Informed quarters said it may be that President Roosevelt will consider the situation does not justify any severance of relations, even if the state department recommends such action.

In such an event, the state department will act only on the Italian government's order expelling American consuls from Italy. While American officials are convinced Rome's move was inspired if not dictated by Berlin, they nevertheless feel this government cannot let Italy's action go unanswered.

with no dependents who make $2,500 a year will pay $11 this year and will pay $38.50 next year. They earned $3,000, they paid $13 this year and will pay $308 next year. If $10,000, this year's tax will be $528 and next year's will be $1,111.

Similarly, a single person who made $1,000 paid $4.40 and next year will pay $15.40. If he made $2,500, he paid $63.80 and next year will pay $159.50.

The committee, however, voted against changing the base exemptions, which will remain at $2,000 for married couples and $800 for single persons. Also retained the 10 per cent defense tax, which will apply on the total levy—4 per cent plus the surtax. The 10 per cent earned income credit, however, will apply only in computing the normal 4 per cent tax.

In the field of corporation income taxes, the committee voted to raise the excess profits rates, which are now graduated from 25 to 50 per cent, to 35 to 60, and to plug supposed loopholes in these payments.

It also imposed a special 10 per cent tax on companies which might otherwise escape the excess profits tax levies, and revised the method of computing excess profits in order to secure a greater yield to the government.

LEADS HYGIENE SESSION TODAY

State PTA Director To Head Panel Discussions at Ashland Confab.

ASHLAND—When the delegates at the mental hygiene conference meeting this week at Ashland college discuss home and family relationships at today's session, Mrs. Richard G. Williams, director of family life for the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, will lead a panel discussion at the afternoon session. The panel will be composed of parents and teachers and will discuss the techniques for developing better home and school relationships.

Mrs. Williams attended Vassar college where she received her A. B. degree and did graduate work in the Euthenics Institute at Vassar. She obtained her M. A. degree in Parent Education and Child Development at the University of Rochester. She was previously employed as assistant in the Parent Education group, as a leader parent education groups, and as Parent Consultant in Rochester, N. Y.

In 1937 Mrs. Williams accepted the post of director with the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers where she has been assisting with the further education for parents.

Dr. Carl H. Rogers, professor of psychology at Ohio State university, conducted the morning session of the conference. The theme for the meeting was to be home and family relationships.

Before going to Ohio State university, Dr. Rogers was associated for 11 years with the Rochester Guidance Center, Rochester, N. Y. first as a psychologist, then as director of the child study department, and finally as director of the center.

Beta Kappa Tau sorority entertained this week with a party honoring Miss Josephine Faber, bride-elect of Howard Robinson. A dinner was served at Shelby Inn and a social program was held later at the home of Miss Betty Daugherty. A bathroom shower was held for the bride-elect.

CRAWFORD ROAD WORKERS BACK ON JOBS TODAY

39 County Employees Get Wage Increases Following One-Day Strike.

BUCYRUS—Thirty-nine Crawford county laborers and truck drivers here went back to work today after county commissioners agreed to give the workers five-cent raises and the drivers seven-cent increases.

The county workers walked out yesterday afternoon. Although the laborers were raised to 55 cents per hour two weeks ago and the drivers to 60 cents per hour, the latter claimed that because they were forced to buy liability insurance the cost took most of the pay raise.

Refusing to leave the county garage after reporting for work yesterday the workers appointed a committee of four to confer with the commissioners in an attempt to come to an agreement on a wage scale.

In addition to the pay increases, both laborers and drivers had their work week trimmed from 48 to 44 hours per week. The workers agreed to work a 48 hour week in case of emergency.

Laborers will now receive 55, 60 and 62 cents an hour according to their classification while truck drivers will receive 62 cents an hour.

BUCYRUS—Twelve draftees will leave Bucyrus Saturday for induction camps and on June 30 six more men will leave for a year of selective service training.

Those making up the group to leave Saturday are Robert E. Lea, John W. Uebelhoefer, Robert F. Stailey, John Linn, David T. Postance, Kenneth W. Kafer, Lester C. Taylor, Robert S. Wood, Clyde B. Wood, Oliver I. Culver, Clayton Smith and Kenneth C. Campbell. Wilson F. Mackley of Shelby will also be inducted from here, for the Hamilton county board.

In the group leaving June 30 will be the first Bucyrus teacher, Austin W. Jepson, of New Waterford, industrial arts instructor in Bucyrus High school; Eldon W. Lynch, Harold F. Patterson, Orin E. Thorton, and Ralph W. Nelson.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JUNE 20, 1941

The Duce seems to think he's an ace, when he's only a two-spot.

We're afraid that Americans won't get so much fishing done as usual this year.

Well, anyway, the boys now in the army won't have to pay much income tax next year.

This Blunderland

ACCORDING to "Technocracy, Inc.," which is mostly a clever propagandist named Howard Scott, our defense program will crack up within three years. That is because it is built "by guess and by God," on wasteful day-to-day expediency.

Well, we do blunder and stall and mess around a good deal when we tackle a job like this. It's a way democracies have. We step on each others' feet and waste a lot of time, effort and money. But we generally get away with it, for two reasons.

First, we usually have the time and effort to waste. Second, we usually blunder forward. And eventually, because of our free effort and the stimulation of our people's natural forces, we do a hard job better than the slave nations do when led by self-appointed bosses.

Right now, it is true, we haven't much time and effort to waste. But we have been blundering ahead in our vast defense program more rapidly and intelligently than usual, so that already we begin to see our war-aid-to-Britain-and-ourselves shaping up.

It begins to look like the biggest defensive war effort in all human history. And it will be in operation, doing the job it was meant for, when "Technocracy, Inc." and all other fascist efforts in this country are still making hopeful speeches to little groups of people in cute uniforms.

National Day-Light Saving

IT IS POSSIBLE that congress will enact a daylight-saving law of some sort. Several bills with such a purpose are being considered by that body now.

There are plenty of Americans who question the usefulness and necessity of such a change, although if action comes it will be as a defense measure.

One good thing can be said for it. It will be national. That will eliminate the confusion arising every summer in regions where some communities are on "summer" time and others are on "standard" and the farmers are painfully "in the middle." That is, it would eliminate such confusion if local law-making bodies could restrain themselves from further tampering with the clock.

Garden Enemies

SOME PROBLEMS seem to be growing worse these days. Insect pests are waging more vigorous battle against the gardener's fruit, flowers and vegetables. Worse yet are the rabbits that swarm over the landscape.

From one suburban community comes word that hordes of rabbits are invading lawns, destroying shrubbery, flowers and anything else they can reach.

In a lot of places the possession of firearms is not allowed and, if it were, the rabbits are protected by a strictly defined "open season." A scientific trap might be made, using a special design prepared by the state government, and it might catch rabbits. But by that time, no doubt, there wouldn't be much garden left to save.

Soaked Dust Bowl

IF IT ISN'T ONE THING, it's another, and the latest misfortune in the way of weather is actually "too much rain in the dust bowl." Unprecedented rains have begun to work havoc with winter wheat in that region.

A week ago grain men were counting on a bumper harvest of winter wheat because the early growing weather had been so fine. Now, however, when ripening weather is wanted, the excessive rains have come. If clear weather is not too long delayed, all will not be lost. But continued rain will cause serious damage.

It will be most unfortunate to have any large amounts of wheat spoiled, yet the situation may have redeeming features if the underground water levels begin to gain and the danger of having vast amounts of fertile soil blown away is ended.

Let's Look Around

Yellowstone Getting Into Action

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyoming—Except for a person who has "been everywhere and seen everything," superlatives are dangerous. "Largest," "finest," "most beautiful"—and similar words and expressions, should be carefully avoided in any mention of a progressive trip into new territory, such as this has been.

After all, the charm, beauty and appeal of any particular place is largely a matter of individual taste and personal preference, rather than general acceptance.

Now that we have covered more than five thousand miles in a swing around the southwest and west, and are finally taking a look at Yellowstone, we can better understand why this oldest and largest of the national parks has long had such a tremendous tourist appeal.

Looking out of the window of our room at the crowd gathering to watch the "play" of Old Faithful, we get an idea of the vast throngs that will be here within another week or two when the Yellowstone season gets into full swing.

Out first look at an eruption of Old Faithful was in late afternoon, at a time so definitely fixed that variation of even a few minutes is not anticipated.

Slowly the wisp of steam that constantly comes from the opening in the geyser mound grows in volume, then a small spout of water is thrown upward. Old Faithful is getting ready for its hourly "play."

Cameras are made ready—for this is the most photographed geyser in the world. Suddenly a column of crystal clear, boiling hot water is shot upward to a height of about 150 feet, with steam clouds reaching hundreds of feet higher.

This is the moment when cameras are snapped, as the peak of eruption is brief—after which Old Faithful settles down for another hour of that strange underground action of intense heat and a flow of cold water, which finally produces pressure that can be relieved only by such eruptions as are indulged in by Old Faithful and its 200 geyser associates in Yellowstone.

BUT, while best known and most publicized, Old Faithful geyser can rightly be regarded as a minor feature of Yellowstone. There are hundreds of attractions which many visitors will consider more interesting, if not more fascinating.

There are, for instance, scores of places at which stops are to be made during the course of the hundred-mile circle drive from either the park headquarters at Mammoth Springs, Old Faithful hotel and lodge, or wherever visitors may select as a lodging place.

Unforgettable views of Yellowstone Falls and the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, with the river flowing through the gorge 800 feet below, and colorful panoramic vistas in both directions, are best secured from Artist Point and Inspiration Point, reached by short walks from parking places near these outlook areas.

SUGGESTION: A stop should be made at each of the places where signboard indicates a point of interest, as there are no such signs unless attention is merited.

Yellowstone is not "a one-day park," as some of the national parks are designated. It deserves a minimum two-day stay—three days would be better, and a week is not too long. The geysers and the scenery is not all of Yellowstone. There is also the wildlife, the flowers, shrubbery, the many kinds of trees, and the mid-June snow banks along the highway which make great appeal to California and Florida visitors, who take snapshots of members of their families playing in the snow.

YELLOWSTONE has a short season. It is in full operation only from June 15 to September 15, with limited accommodations available a little before and after these dates. But in 1940 Yellowstone attracted 525,252 visitors, who came in 155,939 cars; made an average stay of two or three days and traveled an average of 1,000 miles to reach the park. This year's start-off indicates considerably increased patronage.

THE "EAT" IN WHEAT

Wall Street Laughs at Itself

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It isn't often that Washington gets any laughs out of Wall Street. But there wasn't a giggle in the Securities and Exchange commission, the treasury department, the commerce department, or any other agency that has anything to do with the crossroads of American and formerly world finance, who wasn't chuckling or roaring the other day when they received copies of "The Bawl Street Journal."

It's The Wall Street Journal's annual "competitive kidding" edition—and this year, the old timers tell me, the men on the street are long on comedy and bulling the market as never before.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's favorite gag led off a column called "Washington Haywire"—a Broadway columnesque observation that Morgenthau's new theme song for Wall Street is, "I'll Be Down to Get You With the Taxes, Honey."

There was also a crack at the dollar-a-year men in the item titled "Business leaders are criticizing their associates in this burg (Washington) for spending too much time with New Dealers."

Among the serious strikes causing hemming and hawing in capital circles, the Bawl Street Journal gave its attention to the spider strike. "Spide webs are a defense item," the Journal reported.

"The government hired bugmen to raise spiders to spin webs from which threads can be made for crosslines in firing sights. The spiders are the ultimatum. We won't spin by a bomb sight!"

Poking the SEC in the ribs, the Journal's capital correspondent reported: "The SEC will look into N. Y. stock exchange trading of the last week, following reports that trading had topped more than 10 shares in one day. SEC officials want to know if investors actually are buying again? Or is this a move to corner the market?"

There was not only one but three puns on Emil Schram, the new stock exchange president, and all three were the same: that the exchange membership hereafter is to be known as "Schram and eggs." The boys must love that one.

'Curb' Service.

One of the stories most often read over capital beer mugs had nothing to do with Washington. It was one to the effect that the New York curb exchange finally inaugurated real curb service.

"Thirty girl clerks handled the deals at the curb, all young shapely specimens, with blonds and brunets about evenly divided, and a sprinkling of redheads. All were attired in shorts, military type boots, monkey jackets and plastic helmets with chin straps, the color scheme scarlet and buff.

"Strict supervision was and will be maintained over these beauties. The girls are not allowed to give tips."

Ad Writers Joined In.

Some of the best chuckles came from the Wall Streeters' own ad writers. One brokerage company bragged, "Our stock may be down, but it's never out; another that it was the 'originators of the matched and lost order system'; a third urged 'Take us into your confidence and we'll take you.'

The Chase National Bank, observing that many persons and firms had changed to Chase, wanted to know: "Why Don't You Go Chase Yourself."

Another brokerage house, referring to its proximity to Old Trinity churchyard cemetery, at the upper end of Wall Street, moaned: "Still next to the churchyard! One foot in the grave, but it's a long time since we had one in the graveyard."

All in all, those capital officials who could get their hands on a copy of "The Bawl Street Journal" (the demand far exceeded the supply) agreed that this was one year Wall Street panicked Washington.

Twenty Years Ago Today

Monday, June 20, 1921.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Conant were celebrating their silver wedding anniversary.

Miss Ruth Mowery and E. W. Sonner were married at the First Lutheran church.

Mrs. Margaret Spohn, Mrs. Catherine Schweier and Hermine Michael left for a trip to Hamburg, Germany.

Rev. Courtland Miller was elected president of the Michigan Lutheran Synod, according to word received by his father, Rev. A. C. Miller, pastor of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

Mrs. Mary Beal was secretary of the home service section of the Richland County Red Cross.

Five Years Ago Today

Saturday, June 20, 1936.

Jane Brucker and Jane Wagner sailed from New York for a tour of England and Europe.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Bloom, 94 Vennum avenue.

E. W. Dann went to Washington, D. C. to attend the convention of the Kiwanis International.

Sping Owens went to New Jersey to spend the summer months with relatives.

A double wedding ceremony was performed at St. Peter's church for Miss Rose Amato and Charles Arntz, and Miss Ann Mertler and Jacob Arntz.

Tecumseh, the Shawnee chief, was the brother of Tenskwatewa, the prophet, and the place of his birth is near Westfall in Pickaway county.

His father, Pucksinwa, also a Shawnee chief, was killed in the Battle of Point Pleasant, Oct. 10, 1774. The Shawnee nation was living in the Scioto-Paint creek valleys at the time. For many years white observers, both American and British, recognized only the importance of the prophet, and as late as August, 1810, William Henry Harrison, governor of the Indiana territory, referred to the Tecumseh as "The Prophet's Brother."

It has been established, however, that Tecumseh was the one who developed the law that no sale or cession of Indian land could be valid without consent of all the tribes.

Rockefeller 'In Middle' on Oil Plan Involving Own Company

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Nelson Rockefeller, scion of the Standard Oil millions and now co-ordinator of Pan-American relations, got himself jockeyed into a tough position the other day in Standard Oil tankers.

Rockefeller, who has done a good job of promoting Pan-American friendship, called a meeting in his office to discuss the shortage of oil tankers for the South American trade. Representatives of the navy, state department, maritime commission and Secretary Ickes attended—also the big oil companies.

Spokesman for the oil men was Standard Oil of New Jersey, perhaps the biggest of the Rockefeller properties.

It was pointed out that with 56 tankers taken off the commercial runs and given to the navy, U. S. oil companies would have to curtail their exports to Latin America. So Standard of New Jersey proposed to solve this by reducing shipments to regular customers by 30 per cent. Customers who had not been regular would be cut 100 per cent.

This proposition did not seem unfair on the surface—until examined carefully.

For some time American oil companies have been clashing with the Uruguayan and Chilean governments because they had their own distributing systems. Also the two governments have been intermittent customers, rather than regulars.

So the proposal of Standard Oil of New Jersey would mean that Chile and Uruguay would be cut off entirely and their government oil systems put out of business.

The State department vigorously opposed the plan. It remains to be seen which side Nelson Rockefeller throws his weight.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When you think of the composer Rachmaninoff, you have to think of the Prelude in C Sharp Minor. It identifies him more completely, to the lay public, than any other composition.

Similarly, to think of Erskine Caldwell is to think of Tobacco Road, that novel of the unwashed, unshaved, unclothed, uneducated and unintelligent white trash of a poverty stricken district. From this novel grew the play that ran seven years on Broadway and set an all-time record for continuous performances. For a while it seemed likely that Caldwell too would languish in the backwash of his own literary efforts.

But I think people will begin to identify him with things other than the Georgia loafers after they get their hands on the American Folkways Series. This is an interesting idea. A couple of years ago he went to the publishing house of Duell, Sloan and Pearce and spread his plans before them—plans for a series of books on the great regional districts or areas of the U. S. that overlap state boundaries and have philosophies and histories, and sometimes even a lingo, of their own.

He had the idea for "Desert Country" and "Pinon Country," he thought of the Blue Ridge country, the Ozarks, the short grass country. He thought of the high border country and others.

The publishers told him to go right ahead. They made him editor-in-chief of the project, told him to select his own authors, hand out his own assignments. . . . He, Caldwell, was to supervise the work.

Last week I had the pleasure of reading the first two of this series, "Desert Country," and "Pinon Country." The pinon country of America takes its name from the Pinon tree, which dots the grazing lands of the Southwest and yields a nut that is sold on the sidewalks of New York. You will find vendors with pushcarts on the lower East Side selling pinon nuts, and they are a favorite, because the people there find in them a pleasant substitute for the pine nuts of Russia and the pistachio nuts of Asia. Pinon country is the land of the Grand Canyon, and of Billy the Kid, and Bronson Cutting, and of ghost towns and legend.

Of the desert, Edwin Corle has this to say: "The word itself is dramatic. Desert portends emptiness, nothingness, wasteland; it connotes danger, peril, fear; it is a place to be shunned; it is mysterious, awesome, brutal. . . ."

That's Corle's opening gun — Corle who has studied and traveled the desert country and knows it better than a book. Haniel Long, who wrote "Pinon Country," is an American who was born in Burma and became a Harvard professor. He has spent ten years in the Pinon country.

These two have opened the series of American Folkways, and they may be the "emancipation" of Erskine Caldwell, who has written other things, but who is referred to almost exclusively as the man who wrote Tobacco Road.

Everyday Poem

Comment On Flower Shows. There are not any words to say At flower shows. Words seem So futile when a sea of bloom That is high beauty's dream Spreads out about the heart; there are No words to say at all For roses or for hyacinths, Or lillies bright and tall.

For they are words and songs. No harsh embellishment Of sound, no prelude, postscript; they Hold all in their content.

The "ohs" and "ahs," the "Isn't this a lovely thing?" seem out Of place when flowers mock mere words.

With splendor's mighty rout.

One-Minute Test.

1. What is the electronic theory?

2. What is meant by a custom-made garment?

3. What color is a dishonorable discharge from the U. S. national guard?

Hints on Etiquette.

You should be absolutely sincere with your friends. If a friend does something or says something of which you disapprove, talk the matter over with him or her; it is worse than discourteous—you are false to your friendship—if you speak to others about it.

Words of Wisdom.

The love of man to woman is a thing common and of course, and at first partakes more of instinct and passion than of choice; but true friendship between man and man is infinite and immortal.—Plato.

One-Minute Test Answers.

Merry-Go-Round.

Behind that statement of the president urging defense chiefs and industry to remove discriminations against Negroes and other minority groups was an effort to head off a protest "March on Washington."

Walter White, head of the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People; Philip Randolph, head of the Pullman workers, and other prominent Negro leaders, are planning to lead a "march" to focus public attention on the issue.

Because he has just returned from a visit to the Vatican, government chiefs read with interest the speech of Bishop Joseph P. Hurley of St. Augustine, before the Florida state convention of the National Council of Catholic Women, denouncing isolationism as a threat to religious liberty.

"Some of these men," Bishop Hurley declared, "only a few months back were inciting our people to the worst kind of war—race hatreds."

Isolationist Mail.

Within a period of two days last week a small town Maryland resident received three large envelopes containing a mass of isolationist literature. One of the envelopes, bearing a Washington postmark and mailed under the congressional frank of Senator D. Worth Clark, Idaho (one of the president's foreign policy), contained a copy of a speech by him entitled, "You are on your way to war."

He introduced himself to me last year in a letter penned with aged trembling fingers, yet neat as an etching. He was, he said, interested in what I had written about "our village," since he had worked there more than 60 years himself, and loved the little town.

Last week, driving by, my wife and I saw a funeral procession parked on the side of Main street. A crowd stood about the funeral home. Stores and business places were closed. We looked at each other and murmured, "I wonder who."

I stood on the sidewalk and heard two women talking. "I can't believe he's gone," one said. "It don't seem any time since I saw him delivering foods—tied to his bicycle while he pushed it along. The manager didn't ask him to do it, but he worked for the good of everybody more'n himself."

"Yes," agreed the other, "He was in that same store 60 years and lots of people dealt there just because he was there to wait on 'em. He seemed, somehow, to sell you something that was n't wrapped up in the package you took home. If a body was worried or discouraged it always helped to talk to him. He'll never know how much good he did for me that's why I dropped all my work at home and came here to look on his face for the last time."

"I believe the reason he never married," stated her companion, "was just because he was too busy doing for others so that he forgot a home for himself. He gave his last cent many times so that needy folks about him might be more comfortable."

The bearers carried out a simple casket heaped with lovely flowers. People stood aside. Many eyes were moist.

An old man said to me as we watched the long funeral train disappear around a corner. "I belonged to that man's lodge for 30 years. I was back on my dues several times and he paid them when I was out of work. He visit-

While Secretary Cordell Hull has been issuing scathing statements blasting the Vichy government, a life-size painting of Marshal Petain, head of that regime, hangs in the rotunda of the Army War college. Also in the building is a large statue of Frederick the Great, military idol of the Nazis.

"World or Nothing," by Herbert Agar, brilliant editor of The Louisville Courier-Journal, in the July Atlantic Monthly, is the most forceful exposition of the anti-isolationist viewpoint yet published.

Defense Housing Administration for C. F. Palmer has been criticized for being too mild in dealing with profiteering reality interests, but he minced no words in his speech before the National Housing Inventory. Said Palmer: "We have met only one major obstacle—a failure on the part of some of the varied interests with whom we have to deal to recognize that there exists a national emergency so grave in its implications that no man can now foresee what the future holds."

A Farmer's Diary

A Good Citizen

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

My wife took from our files two letters—the latest one less than a year ago. "Stephen Girard," he had written in the quaint, trembling script "Whose statue you saw in Philadelphia was my great-grandmother's brother. She married great-grandfather—a soldier who came to United States with LaFayette—and was drowned by her family." . . . and then in closing words, "I am waiting without fear or dread the final summons when my tired old body will be laid to rest in an already marked grave on the sunny hillside west of 'our village.' I would be glad to have you give me a call."

I wrote and thanked him, and I always meant to go. Now I shall never clasp his hand.

Housewife Strips Kitchen to Aid British Air Force

LONDON—(U.S.)—The Ministry for Aircraft Production received recently a bulky parcel accompanied by a letter.

The parcel contained three battered aluminum saucepans, one frying pan and one spoutless kettle. The letter said:

"Dear Sir:
Enclosed material for building a plane. I shall expect same to patrol our street every night. You might have it fly purple streamers so that we know it is mine. Also I should like it to be named after Reggie, my youngest, who is five years old and very interested in airplanes.
Yours Sincerely,
Mrs. Brown."

It is not yet known whether a "Spitfire Reggie" is flying nightly over Mrs. Brown's street.

CHINESE KILLER IN 'GUINEA PIG' CASE PAROLED

Woo Dak San Offered His Eyes In Trachoma Experiment.

SILVER CITY, N. M., (U.S.)—Woo Dak San, the hatchet-knife slayer of a wealthy Chinese merchant, who sat in the death row two years, is free on parole.

As a result, reports are heard that a tong war, blamed in the slaying of Yee Woo, the merchant, will flare again with Woo, former Silver City restaurant cook, the marked man this time.

Woo, who first faced hanging and then was resentence to be electrocuted, was paroled to a brother in an unnamed California city, but his intimates say he will be found by his enemies in a rival tong.

Woo Dak San went on trial for his life twice. Although the state presented evidence that robbery was the motive for the slaying, more sensational evidence was presented. Witnesses said Woo was the hired killer in a San Francisco tong.

The case ended in a mistrial with the jury deadlocked 11 to one for his conviction. The foreman named the juror who was holding out "because he was against capital punishment."

The juror, who had asserted he had no scruples against capital punishment when sworn in, was committed to jail for contempt of court.

The second trial ended with Woo's conviction and he was sent to the death row of the state penitentiary at Santa Fe to await hanging. Meanwhile, the state legislature abolished hanging and substituted electrocution.

Woo's attorney, Alvan N. White, Silver City lawyer, who faced special prosecution employed by Yee Woo's tong, seized upon this to halt the execution.

The state supreme court, however, ordered the district judge who sentenced him to re-sentence him to be electrocuted. This was done and he went to the death row again, this time to await electrocution.

White appealed to the late Gov. Arthur Seligman for executive clemency and he commuted Woo's sentence to 99 years.

He was paroled after 14 years in prison, the last 10 spent as a trustee and the private chef of the warden.

As Woo faced the death penalty in 1926, hope for a changed sentence rose on condition that he submit to an experiment with trachoma, the dread eye disease.

A Japanese scientist, Hideyo Noguchi, believed he had isolated the bacilli and sought a human test.

State officials believed Woo's death sentence could be commuted to life imprisonment if he would submit to inoculation with trachoma. Woo consented, but widespread protests resulted in withdrawal of the offer.

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XX

"But poor little Lottie couldn't bear it. One night she suddenly appeared in my brother's room, as he was reading to his wife, and accused him of having ruined her life!"

"If I was the baby," Cherry said, hardly breathing. "I must have been born just about that time, too."

"You were only a few days old. Your mother, poor Lottie, was perhaps weak and feverish, hardly knowing what she was doing."

"But she couldn't have come to the house. She'd have been too weak."

"She may have been in the house with Emma. I have always suspected that Emma was there and the baby was born there. However it was, she rushed into Amelia's room, and there was a sad scene. To Amelia, gentle, dignified little thing that she was, it must have been a fearful shock. She'd lost all control of herself; she was sobbing bitterly."

"Did she say anything about the baby?"

"No. Amelia never knew about the baby. Of course I don't know what she said," the judge admitted with a faint frown. "But whatever she said, it didn't last long, for Amelia fainted, and when she came to she was very ill, and the baby was born within the hour. Emma came hurrying down and took Lottie away, and a few days later Emma left my mother, and she and Lottie went to live somewhere in the country."

"Fred was killed in a motor smash a few years later, and Amelia didn't survive long. My mother took charge of Amy, and the money my brother left for you I administered as best I could. Emma had sent her sister to this school of Saint Dorothea's for a while, when she was little but Lottie hated it and came back. 'A school of character,' as the catalogue says, and she wanted you sent there."

"And I hope," the man finished, smiling, "that character is exactly what you've got, Cherry. I look to you for great things. Now, about this matter of my mother," said the judge, ignoring Cherry's stricken silence, "she doesn't want Amy to be distressed by this, and she'll not say another word about it. You come to the house when you like, give Amy as much friendship as you can and leave the rest to me."

Cherry was standing; she came over to his chair, bent over him swiftly, and he felt her warm lips against his forehead.

"I love you! There's never any trouble for anyone where you are!" she said, and was gone.

"Oh, the relief, Kelly!" she wrote him from camp. "The relief of doing something you simply don't want to do, and having it over, and your soul as clear as a bell. The judge was a saint, as usual and things stay as they are."

"When will you see me? When college opens for three delicious weeks before that, as soon as we close camp. Rebecca and I and a darling girl named Lucie Fargo are going on a wild cruise. Up to Victoria—we'll actually be out of America, imagine!—and on the way home we're going to stay with Lucie's grandmother, who has a country hotel. That's up in Mendocino county not far from Aunt Emma's place; it's only about thirty miles. So I've written Aunt Emma that I'm coming over to see her."

"I wrote you that I've made the entrance exams and am admitted; credits to spare too, so score on for Saint Dorothea's! Life is all exciting."

And she signed it "Your devoted and obedient Marchioness."

But despite high spirits she dreaded the visit to Emma, and was glad that it was to be put off until the end of the holiday.

In due time she and Rebecca and Lucie drove along the ocean coast, and into high mountains, and through valleys where great rivers raced. It was all glorious and restful and exciting. To have climbed into the car at the kitchen door of the Pringle house in a quiet California town and to descend from it into what might have been an English city was a sort of miracle.

So that when they were back in California with the great mountains and the days of laughter and change and adventure behind them, Cherry felt herself older, wiser, braver, and she shook off the little instinctive wincing of her spirit at the thought of encountering Emma again, and on a certain sober September afternoon presented herself at the door of Emma's cabin with nothing more than a little shyness in her manner.

Emma lived in a lumber country. Cherry, for her drive of 30 miles, had borrowed the car, leaving the other girls with Lucie's grandmother.

The door to Emma's main room was half open; there were no locks in Upper Camp. The interior of the room was dark, the walls rough pine board and bating, the furnishings simple and useful and homelike. There were crushed cushions on a couch before a cold fireplace in which a pyramid of gray ashes stood.

Emma had been lying on the couch, evidently napping; she welcomed Cherry pleasantly enough, but without an embrace, and put the girl into a chair at the hearth while she started a fire and lighted one dim kerosene lamp.

"Cherry," she said suddenly, "I wanted to see you. I'd rather tell you than write you I'm going to be married."

Cherry stared at her in amazement, laughed delightedly. "Lumberman?"

"No. A man I used to know 20 years ago. You've never heard his name; nobody has. He's not an American; we shan't live in America."

"Aunt Emma! But who is he?"

The plain face flushed as Emma turned from stirring the fire.

"I'd rather you didn't know."

Cherry sat back, snubbed and humiliated. "I'm sorry," she said stiffly.

"I don't mean it the way you think I do," Emma pursued, in her slow, painstaking fashion. "I mean that it will be better for you and everyone if you don't know. I will be gone from here—now, that I've seen you—in a day or two. I shall lock the door, get into my car and drive away. I've no friends here, although they're all kindly neighbors. I'll meet—my friend next week, be married, sell my car and go away. It's better so."

"But, Aunt Emma, why?" the girl said, recovered from her moment's setback, and full of sympathy. "Even if it's only to write each other, once a year, it's something. You're not . . ." She laughed as at an absurdity. "You're not trying to hide something, are you?"

"I've hidden something for twenty years," Emma said quietly. In the shadows Cherry could not see her face. "It touches you nearer than it does me," the older woman continued. "I want you to know it, even though it may make no difference in the way you live, and what you feel and do. What I did was wrong. Whether it's a prior offense or not I don't know. I'm risking that I'm risking your not caring enough, or anyone's caring enough, to follow me—to have me traced. I can tell you in a few words."

Cherry sat staring, her face colorless, her eyes blazing, her lips unable to utter a sound.

"I don't think I heard what you said, Aunt Emma," Cherry said faintly after a long while.

"Yes, you heard me," Emma said. She repeated what she had said before. "You ought to know—that you aren't Charlotte Rawlings at all, Cherry. You ought to know that you're Amelia Marshbanks."

Cherry swallowed with a dry throat, essayed to speak, failed.

"You said, Aunt Emma—" she stammered after a silence and stopped. "You didn't say that I'm Amy . . ."

Breath failed her again. The other woman looked at her somberly.

"I'll tell you what happened," Emma said in her unemotional way. "I'd have sworn 20 years ago that wild horses couldn't drag it out of me. But you're different from what I thought you'd be. Everything's different. Time was when I wanted everything good in the world to come to Amy Marshbanks. But she isn't like Lottie; she isn't like her mother. She's proud, superficial; proud as her grandmother is. They've made her like that. Well! Let it go."

"I went down to the city last week to see the judge about moving my account from the bank," Emma pursued. "I have it all in traveler's checks now. I can take it with me. When I called at the Marshbanks house, Amy was going up the stairs with two other girls. She saw me waiting there in the hall; she didn't even give me a nod. 'It's just one of Granney's old servants,' she said. I think I made up my mind at that minute to tell you that you're the one who ought to have the money, you're the one who ought to be going to the dances and to Honolulu and to Europe."

"It won't do you any good, Cherry. There's no proof. No one knew except Lottie, and she's been dead these thirteen years."

Silence. Silence. After a while Emma's voice again.

"I was 12 years older than Lottie; my mother died when she was two. She was pretty the way Amy is, only slightly and smaller, with Amy's kind of hair. After my father died we lived with an aunt and uncle; they weren't always kind to me, but everyone adored Lottie. When my aunt died I kept house for my uncle and Lottie was my baby. When she was six I took her to her first school. I did her homework with her."

"My father was John Rawlings—he could never do much for us, and when he died and my uncle and aunt died—I was 19 then—Lottie was all I had left."

"Well, I married Tom Haskell, and he was a father to her. She was 10, and pretty as a picture. One Sunday we were driving along comfortably, Lottie squeezed in between me and Tom on the front seat and suddenly a big truck smashed in on us from the left. Tom was dead at the wheel; I was broken almost in two. But little Lottie was protected by our bodies."

"Three months later I went to the Marshbanks. I tried St. Dorothea's for Lottie—an old friend of mine was a Sister there—but she couldn't stand it, so I boarded her with a fine Irishwoman who had three children. I saw her often, every week nearly."

"When she was old enough Lottie went to a nice, simple little boarding school in Belmont. Summers they had a camp, and she was happy and good and prettier and prettier."

"Fred Marshbanks, your father, was one of the handsomest men I ever saw, but weak. He had married Amelia Wellington by this time—she was a lovely girl with blue eyes and light hair, but for a long time it looked as if they couldn't have a child, and it broke her heart. Jud Marshbanks was married too, but he lived in the East, and they only saw his little boy now and then. That's Gregory, of course."

"I wanted Lottie nearer me then, and she'd left school, and boarded down in Redwood City. But she was often with me in the Marshbanks house."

"When Lottie was 18 and I was 30 I was sewing in my room one night. We were all under a considerable strain in the house for at last Fred's wife was going to have a baby, and they were terribly anxious for fear something terrible would go wrong again."

"It was 11 o'clock, and I was thinking of going to bed when suddenly my door opened, and Lottie was there. She gave me a terrible start."

"The minute I saw her I knew we were lost somehow, but I didn't know why. She looked pale and changed and she didn't smile or kiss me. She just crossed the room and knelt down at my knee, and said, 'Sis, I'm in trouble.'"

"I guess my life—the real living—ended right there," Emma went on, after a moment when only Cherry's dilated eyes and half-parted lips and quickly moving breast showed how absorbed she was. "I asked her what kind of trouble, and she cried, and gradually it came to me—that I knew."

"I kept patting her hands, and swallowing, and looking away, and by and by I heard myself telling her, 'All right, darling, I'll take care of you. We'll get out of this somehow.' When she stopped sobbing and was leaning against me, resting her hair against my cheek, I asked her who it was, if I knew the man."

"Then she told me."

"For a few minutes the whole world seemed to rock and roar with it," Emma went on, talking in a low tone now, looking into space with narrowed eyes, seeming to be only thinking aloud. "It was as if a gun had gone off. My heart was thick and my head hurt. But I had to keep holding tight to her, telling her it was all right, that we'd get through—we'd get through somehow. Had she told anyone? No, nobody—nobody. She carried that secret for five months."

"To think, Cherry of the welcome they were getting ready for the Marshbanks baby, and of the way the world would treat my Lottie's unwanted little scrap, seemed to work like some terrible intoxicating poison in me. I put her to bed; she'd stayed at the house often enough; there was no comment by anyone; and if Fred Marshbanks ever had thought of her, he had probably put it all out of his mind, as a moment's foolish mistake months before."

MALABAR FARM IS SCENE OF CONCERT

Piano and Voice Students of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Frank Present Varied Concert at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bromfield Thursday.

PIANO PUPILS of Lawrence S. Frank presented a concert Thursday evening at 7:45 p. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bromfield, Malabar Farm. His pupils were assisted throughout the program by voice students of Mrs. Frank and Judson Dolle, violinist. The program was opened with the playing of "Hopskotch," an Oxford course, played by John Ferryak.

Guild Meets In Church Parlors

St. John's Guild met Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors for its regular meeting. The session was opened with prayer by Rev. Paul Saleste. Mrs. Hedwig Hamilton led the devotional period. The topic was discussed by Miss Clara Yeager. Several piano selections and dance numbers were presented by Miss Betty Garver. Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. Florence Burghard, Mrs. Bertha Beidel and Mrs. Rose Crider. The next meeting will be held at the church with Mrs. Doia Garver, chairman of the program committee and a serving committee composed of Mrs. Malvina Damos, Mrs. Lillian Emmens and Mrs. Anna Fiedler in charge.

Mrs. E. Mattox Entertains Club

Mrs. Edward Mattox, 589 Heine-man boulevard, entertained members of the Bid-A-Game club at her home Thursday evening. One guest, Mrs. Robert Springer, Guilford, Miss., was in attendance. Mrs. Springer and her son, Ronnie, are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Eby, Chevy Chase road.

During the evening contract bridge was in play at two tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Bair and Mrs. James Devine. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at small tables decorated with spring flowers. The next meeting will be held July 1 at the home of Mrs. W. R. Mehl, Marion avenue road.

Couple Reveal Plans To Marry in the Fall

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Walker, Palmyra, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to R. C. Scouter, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Scouter, 53 Parkwood boulevard. The couple will be married some time in the fall. Miss Walker is a graduate of Mansfield Business Training school and is employed in Columbus at the present time. Mr. Scouter is a graduate of Ohio State university and is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is also employed in Columbus.

WOMEN'S CLUB

Thursday morning members of the Women's club held the first in their series of summer parties. Bridge was played during the morning beginning at 10:30 a. m. Prizes were won by Mrs. George Faust, Mrs. Milo Miller and Mrs. George Stephens. Luncheon was served the guests at 1 o'clock. Hostesses for this affair were Mrs. Fred Wolfe, Mrs. Philip Corey and Mrs. Carl Russell. The next party will be held July 24.

Women Voters to Launch Program For Production

League of Women Voters in this city will begin a drive to "Speed Up Production Now" in the present defense crisis as a result of a meeting held recently at the Mansfield-Leland hotel of the board of the organization. Miss Almida Janney, head of the department of Modern European History at the University of Toledo and head of the department of government and foreign policy on the state board of the League of Women Voters, was the guest speaker.

During her talk she pointed out the importance of this campaign which is being launched all over the country to "Speed Up Production." The purpose of this campaign is to make the people conscious of the fact that strikes and labor disorders are slowing up production and costing America more every day.

Mrs. T. J. McDermott, president of the city league, named the following on a committee to handle arrangements for Mansfield's part in this campaign. They are Mrs. Kathryn Bancroft, Mrs. Corrine Schettler, Mrs. Mary Colby, Mrs. Ruth Dobson, and Mrs. Marjorie Brooks. The group has already begun work on the campaign which will include giving benefits, posting billboards and signs, and making the program prominent in all ways possible.

Benefit Party Held Thursday

Mrs. Walter Dow, 533 Park avenue west, opened her home Thursday afternoon to 48 members of the Demolay Mother's club and their guests for a benefit card party. Preceding the play light refreshments were served at small tables decorated with garden flowers. Various card games were in play during the evening.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Donald Given, Mrs. Virgil Norri, Mrs. Kimes, Mrs. Ray Mayers, Mrs. Denny Skelton, Mrs. Mary Cleland, Mrs. L. R. Zimmerman and Mrs. Iona Pifer. Mrs. Otis Grafmiller was awarded the door prize. Mrs. Ferrell assisted the hostess. Prizes were donated by Mrs. C. C. Rowe and Charles Kafer.

Business Girls Plan Lake Trip

Week-end swimming, tennis and a winner roast along Lake Erie are in store for 25 members of the Y. W. C. A. Business Girls' club. The group has taken a row of cabins located between Vermillion and Ruggles Beach and will occupy them Saturday night and Sunday.

Plans for the trip were made last night at the home of Miss Norma Sheer, 270 Park avenue west. Miss Ellen Terry is chairman of arrangements and her committee includes Miss Charlotte Gray, Miss Helen Rantz and Miss Lucille Myers.

REGULAR MEET.

Mrs. Edward Bising, Cedar street, entertained members of the Tal-Pal bridge club at her home recently. During the evening bridge was in play at two tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. Harry Denny and Mrs. Roy Bose. One guest, Mrs. Lester Raby, was present and was presented with the guest prize. Luncheon was served at the close of the meeting at small tables decorated with garden flowers. The next meeting will be held June 24 at the home of Mrs. Bose, Vale avenue.

HOUSE WARMING.

L'Amiel club members held a surprise house-warming Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Joseph Colaresa, West Sixth street. Contest was played during the evening. The prize was won by Mrs. Harold White. After the luncheon, which was served buffet style, the honoree was presented with many gifts from the guests. Garden flowers decorated the luncheon table. The next meeting will be held June 26 at the home of Mrs. Colaresa, West Sixth street.

WILLING WORKERS.

Willing Workers society of the Little Washington church held its regular meeting Thursday at the church. The morning and afternoon were spent quilting. A covered-dish luncheon was served at noon. The next session will be held next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Irvin Steele, route No. 39.

Hold Annual Banquet at Church Thursday Evening

Members of the First Presbyterian church held their annual Mother-Daughter banquet Thursday evening at 6:15 p. m. in the church parlors. During the banquet, which was served at long tables decorated with orchid and white appointments and greenery, a program was presented. One table was fixed for the honored guests, mothers who were 80 years or older. At each place was a corsage.

Margaret Ann Cook opened the program with the invocation. A greeting to mothers was given by Miss Janet Kelly. Mrs. Frank Nase responded to this greeting with a speech to the daughters. Doris Anderson then played several musical selections. Group singing was led following this part of the program by Mrs. C. O. Anglin and Mrs. Paul Watts. Dr. John R. Williams, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Wooster, was the guest speaker. He spoke to the group on the importance of co-operation between mothers and daughters.

Hostesses for the banquet were the chairmen of the five church circles. Mrs. H. H. Carter, Mrs. P. F. Haley, Mrs. R. C. Stanton, Mrs. L. W. Basinger, Mrs. G. W. Fox and Mrs. D. N. Roller who was general chairman. Mrs. John Anglin, who was recently honored by the Mansfield News Journal as typical Mansfield mother, was honored at the dinner. Mrs. C. F. Harding, who recently, with her husband, celebrated her 59th wedding anniversary was also an honored guest of the evening.

Mothers who were honored as having celebrated their 80th birthday were Mrs. Mary Craig, Mrs. Ella Anderson, Mrs. Mary Diemer, Mrs. Jane Wolfe and Mrs. Mary King. Those who were honored but were unable to attend the banquet were Mrs. Flora Lewis, Mrs. Isabel Garrett, Mrs. Florence Harding, Mrs. Jennie Donnan, Mrs. Hannah Welch and Mrs. Martha Ryland. Men of the church, under the direction of Rev. D. N. Roller, served the dinner.

Mrs. Princehorn Is Hostess For Meeting

Circle 3 of the First Methodist church held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. L. Princehorn, 163 Ludwig avenue. Associate hostesses were Mrs. Howard Miller, Mrs. Harriet Dickey, and Mrs. M. H. Harrah. Mrs. Weldon Close led the devotions.

The next meeting will be a covered-dish dinner, July 17, at the home of Mrs. Seemuth. Luncheon was served at the close of the session by the hostesses.

LOCAL MUSICIANS ATTEND MEETINGS

Six Local Music Instructors Attended 59th Annual Convention of Music Teachers at Cleveland; Prof. Weinberger Speaks at Meeting.

SIX local music instructors attended the 59th annual convention of Ohio Music Teachers' associations Tuesday and Wednesday at Cleveland. Attending the meeting from Mansfield were Miss Florence Gernhardt, Mrs. Margaret B. Hall, Mrs. Thurza Hazeltine, Professor and Mrs. Eugene Weinberger and Florence MacDonald.

Meetings were started Tuesday morning with delegates appointed to certain sections, such as the voice group for vocal instructors, and the string group for teachers of string instruments. Prof. Weinberger was the speaker at the session for string instruments. He spoke to the group on "The Art and Problems of Teaching Violin." Miss Florence MacDonald was chairman of the voice session which met on Wednesday morning.

She was also elected to the board of directors of the Cleveland chapter of the Ohio Academy of Singing Teachers. She is a member of the state board of the Ohio Music Teachers' association. A banquet was held for the delegates at Hotel Statler, the headquarters for the convention. Toastmaster for the evening was Dr. Russell V. Morgan, general supervisor of music in the Cleveland public schools. Following the banquet Dr. Joseph Remy, professor of comparative literature at Western Reserve university and who has lectured at the Cleveland Institute of Music, gave an interesting talk. Edward Blythin, mayor of Cleveland, spoke to the assembly on "Music in the Life of a Large City."

Entertains for Vivian Walker

Miss Marjorie Walker, 398 Springmill street, entertained recently in honor of Miss Vivian Walker, assistant dance instructor at the Marguerite Speas dance studio, who will leave tomorrow to make her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Walker, in Canton. A buffet luncheon was served at the beginning of the evening for nine couples. After the luncheon, which was served at a long table decorated with garden flowers, the group moved to Ruggles Beach to spend the evening dancing. The honoree was presented with personal gifts from the guests.

Dinner Meeting Held By Joan of Arc Study Club

Joan of Arc Study club met Thursday evening at the Susie Janis home for a 6:30 p. m. dinner meeting. Sprung flowers in pastel shades decorated the dinner table. The hostesses presented the guests with decks of cards as favors. Following the dinner short business meeting was conducted and the installation of officers was held. During the latter part of the evening bridge was in play at three tables. Prizes were won by Mrs. James Kuneman, Mrs. Joseph Seibert, Mrs. Harry Kurik and Mrs. C. G. Wehinger. Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. A. E. Weakland and Mrs. Kurik. The next meeting will be a picnic July 18 at North park.

MISS WALLACE FETED.

Miss Virginia Finefrock entertained last evening at her home on Park avenue west in honor of Miss Sarah Catharine Wallace who is being married tomorrow. Fourteen friends gathered at the home for a social evening. The rooms and dinner table were decorated with balloons in the form of cats. Various card games were played during the evening. Dinner was served at a long table decorated with balloons and cat favors.

HOROSCOPE

THIS may prove to be a day of conflicting interests with sudden and swift action in the direction of probably dramatic achievements or thrilling adventure, but perhaps brought to a stern halt by the drag of duties, responsibilities or obligations. With these conscientiously managed there is great promise of unusual enterprise, with increased fortunes and advancement of surprising nature. This may be accomplished by tact, finesse, or strategy or by influential personalities. In sentimental relations there may be cherished culminations. Those whose birthday it is may be assured of an eventful and thrilling year, with much activity culminating in great happiness, achievement and also dramatic denouement. While all points to unusual adventure, with advanced position and expanding financial status, yet there may be certain drawbacks in the way of obligations or responsibilities, to be handled with tact.

DISTRICT MEET.
Members of the Second district of the First Lutheran church held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wade Simmons. Mrs. C. C. Hout and Mrs. Susan Beck assisted the hostess. Twenty-four members and seven guests were in attendance. Mrs. George Garrison, vice president, conducted the business session. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. A short program was given under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Parry, chairman of the program committee. Mrs. Clara Elder offered a vocal solo. Two accordion solos were played by Miss Shirley Lay. Miss Dorothy Speck gave several readings. The next meeting will be a picnic July 16 at the home of Mrs. George Balliet near Lucas.

REGULAR MEETING.
Happytime club members met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Bertha Brokaw, 415 Lincoln avenue, for their regular business and social meeting. Seventeen members and five guests, Mrs. Russell Strong, Butler, Mrs. Herbert Duval, Mrs. Harold Nussbaum and the Misses Helen and Lucille Noblet, were in attendance. After the business session the evening was spent playing games. Prizes were won by Mrs. Duval, Mrs. Homer Noblet and Mrs. Nussbaum. The next meeting will be held July 17 at the home of Mrs. Helen Butler, south of Ontario. Mrs. Donna Hatmaker will assist the hostess.

MUSIC CLUB.
Student music club members will hold their regular meeting Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. at the home of Miss Ann Bayer, Elizabeth avenue. Richard Wright, recently returned from Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will be the guest singer. He will sing a group of selections during the program. Ruth Smith will present a paper on "Symphonic Music."

4-H CLUB.
Members of the Jolly Stitches 4-H club held their third meeting recently at the home of the advice-giver, Mrs. Carl Johnson. Eighteen members attended the meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The group spent the afternoon socially. The next meeting will be held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Johnson.

Superfluous Hair Worry To Women

By MME. QUI O'VE
Just how the poor, dear bearded lady got that way nobody has been able to determine. There are ideas on the subject. If both parents have coarse thick hair, with more than the usual amount of fuzz on legs and arms, it is quite likely that daughter may develop an incipient moustache as she gets older, or find horrid bristles on her chin. Some specialists maintain that superfluous hair on a lady's face may be due to some mild glandular disturbance. These growths may appear at any age. Girls of sixteen are distressed to notice that the soft downy hairs on the lip are developing into stronger shafts. One may not be afflicted with this trouble until late in life when the horrid growth suddenly appears to vex and distress the feminine soul. There is no trustworthy evidence to prove that oily cosmetics are responsible for these blemishes. Operators whose business it is to weed out misplaced threads have made surveys, claim that the worst cases were those of women who had used no cosmetics at all. They also say that a skin of fine texture that has been kept scrupulously clean is less likely to be fur-bearing than the coarse one that is filled with sebaceous oil which catches atmospheric dust. We pass that last item on for what it may be worth. It is recommended that, at the first sign of bristles, splinters sprouting forth, the face should be washed well twice a day with soap and warm water, rinsed, dried gently, and the surface

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

The Veritzen nodded their acquiescence in my whispered admonition, and then Philip said in sonorous tones, which I knew could be distinctly heard by the marauder on the balcony:

"We haven't realized that we were waiting at all. Indeed, when I am talking with my liege lady," he gave his wife a courtly bow—"I never know where time goes."

"But you must know it now, my Philip," Olga said with a little laugh, and her voice was also loud. "We simply must go back to the party. And we shall telephone you in half an hour. Madge, is that what you said?"

"Yes, but it really won't be necessary, on second thought," I said. "I shall have the operator call me."

"That might be wise," Philip agreed, "a fortification against any possible delay. So now we will say 'au revoir.'"

The moment they had gone I took down a bag from the closet and laid out a negligee and slippers, into which I changed rapidly. Then I went to the French doors, pushed aside the draperies and opened the doors the length of the night chain.

Madge's Ordeal Begins.
I knew that the marauder outside must be almost within reach of my hand, and I had hard work to control my voice as I sent a purposeful plaintive soliloquy into the air:

"How fearfully stuffy it is in here!" I said. Then I went to the telephone, conscious that sinister eyes were watching my every movement and took down the receiver. When the operator answered, I tried to give every word extra distinctness.

"Will you please call me in half an hour?" I said. "I am so very fatigued that I cannot go on to Mrs. Veritzen's party until I have a little nap. I may not answer at the first ring—I shall be sound asleep as soon as my head touches the pillow—but please keep on ringing until I do answer."

"I'll do that, Mrs. Graham," she said, and I hung up the telephone with the feeling that she had put me into her mental classification as extremely garrulous.

Then I went to my living room door, switched off the light, and with the feeling that my heart was literally "in my mouth," I opened the door and gropingly made my way through the darkened room to my bed.

I turned down the covers, crept into bed and pulled the covers to my chin. I had an absurd urge to pull them farther up over my head and then came the ordeal of lying motionless, simulating slumber, while my ears were alert for any slight sound which would herald the coming of the marauder.

My wrist watch was hidden under the covers, and I had but one way of telling time, by counting. It was a good way of steeling my nerves. I decided. But I almost had reached the thousand mark—I was counting about a hundred to the minute—before I heard a tiny click from the front room—so tiny I never would have heard it if I had not been watching for it—which told me that the marauder on the balcony was working on the flimsy night chain.

I heard nothing more. The man must be wearing soft-soled shoes, I decided. But in another minute I sensed an alien menacing presence. And then, in the never quite "all-out" darkness of the hotel room, I saw the dim silhouette of a man coming stealthily toward my bed.

Only one thought kept me from stark panic—the realization that I must continue to breathe naturally, and as I went in deep slumber. But that laudable determination was suddenly made futile when the large, powerful left hand of the gangster suddenly clapped down over my nose and mouth, crushing my head back into the pillow cruelly.

"Listen, lady!" he whispered. "I'm taking this way of waking you up, so I won't have a screaming dame on my hands. I want to talk to you, and I promise not to hurt you in any way if you won't scream. If you'll promise to keep your trap shut, I'll take my hand away. Okay?"

I wondered when he would realize that I could make no sound, but the next instant he had thought out a plan.

Gives Madge Dire Warning.
"You can't talk, I know," he said, "but push your feet up and down if you mean to keep quiet."

I manipulated my feet vigorously, but he did not take away his hand until he had given me a warning.

"I've got a little persuader trained on you," he said, "so don't think you can break your promise later. One screech out of you, and you'll never give another. This thing doesn't make any noise, but it gets its mark. So lie still, listen, and answer questions."

"Number one. Where is that letter you brought in here to show another dame? You know the one I mean. Tell me where it is."

PROTECT YOUR SUIT

If you fear the trumps may be bunched against you, with one defender having as many as the hand with which you hope to drop his smaller ones, you don't dare let him or his partner make you ruff with one of the trumps in that hand. If you have to give them the lead at all, try to do it at a time when you still have a trump or so in the opposite hand to guard you against a run of their long suit. Thereby you may conserve your longer holding.

This was a rubber bridge hand which certainly put the declarer to work, something he likes, for her was Lee Hazen, the national individual masters' champion. When the club Q was led, he figured out a pretty line of play. It was covered with the K, next the A, and he ruffed it with the spade A. He had decided on "reverse play," using the dummy as the master hand and his own for ruffs.

Study showed that if he led hearts after the clubs were ruffed out, North's trumps would all be gone, after using up South's entries, so that a club lead would have to be ruffed by South. This would shorten him so that a trump would make for West if the latter held four. So he led hearts at once, while North could still guard clubs. East certainly would not cover the heart 4, making the hand easy, so ducked and let the Q win.

Came then a ruff of the club 9, a lead to the diamond 10, a ruff of the club K by the spade K, a lead

PLANE ENGINES BY FORD NEAR CASTING STAGE

New, Supercharged Motor Is Set For Production By June.

DETROIT—(AP)—Henry Ford's airplane engine, an advance into new fields will be ready for production in June, officials disclose.

Tests on a two-cylinder segment of the motor have been completed and only a few details of the super-charger system must be worked out before actual production orders are placed.

Army officials, anxious to get the powerful new motor into fighting planes, have closely watched tests through oil stages and are exerting pressure on Ford engineers to rush final details, an official said.

The Ford engine, 12-cylinder, V-type, will be the third liquid-cooled job to be used in American warplanes. The Allison, of slightly more than 1,000 horsepower, currently is powering Bell, Curtiss and Lockheed pursuit ships, while the Rolls-Royce Merlin, a British engine, soon will be turned out for the same jobs by the Packard Motor Car company.

Ford officials say the new power plant will out-perform any other of the same cubic inch cylinder displacement now in use. It is expected to churn up between 1,800 and 2,000 horsepower at 3,600 R.P.M., and send the weight-to-power ratio below one pound per horsepower. The lightest engine now in use in the army air corps weighs about 1 1/2 pounds per horsepower.

Ford engineers said the basis for most of the extra power is the supercharger, which will be in use 100 per cent at all altitudes. It is driven by an exhaust turbine with no mechanical connection to the engine, a revolutionary principle which achieves a perfect aerodynamic condition because the air intake and exhaust are in the direction of flight so there is no drag from the intake and a propulsion effect from the exhaust.

Injection of fuel directly into the cylinder without going through a carburetor makes it possible for the supercharger to push air alone into the chamber, better cooling the exhaust valve, and piston head. It was said.

Supercharging at ground level—not currently practiced—increases horsepower 100 per cent over the normal output, engineers said.

Typical Ford automobile mass production methods are to be used on the engine and special features to make production short-cuts have been developed. One is the casting of certain parts such as cylinder sleeves and crankshaft instead of forging them to an approximate shape and spending tedious hours machining them to required size.

Two Ohio Wives Want Husbands Drafted at Once

WAPAKONETA, O.—(AP)—At least two Auglaize county women have asked the county draft board, rather than the domestic relations court to settle their marital problems.

One wife asked the board to place her husband in the A-1 classification, available for immediate service, because "he is running around with other women."

Another spouse explained that her husband had gone to his parents home with the statement that he no longer could support her. She preferred, she said, to have him in the army rather than live at home.

SWEDISH ARCHEOLOGIST UNFOLDS NEW SECRETS OF GREEK CITY

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Important discoveries of Mycenaean culture were unfolded today by Dr. Axel W. Persson, white-haired Swedish archeologist who arrived in San Francisco recently to give a series of spring lectures at the University of California.

Dr. Persson, professor of classical archaeology and ancient history at the University of Upsala in Sweden, has spent twenty years exploring the buried ruins of prehistoric Grecian cities.

His discoveries in the ruins of Mycenae, a prehistoric city which flourished a thousand years before the Golden Age of Pericles, added valuable archaeological information to the record of Mycenaean culture.

From tiny scenes worked on gold signet rings he found in a Mycenaean tomb, Dr. Persson has been able to outline the religious rites and a large part of the characteristics of the civilization of the ancient people.

Mycenae occupied a prominent place in the legends of Homer. Its culture, one of the richest in ancient history, spread throughout the eastern Mediterranean, and its kings sailed against Troy.

In 1926, Dr. Persson began exploring the tomb of a Mycenaean king at the city of Derna, near the buried ruins of the ancient city of Mycenae. Just before the war broke out in 1939 he uncovered the tomb of a queen within 50 yards of the king's burial place.

In the queen's tomb he found magnificent works of art—gold drinking cups and signet rings, gold necklaces and beads; the first known silver spoon.

"The queen must have been extremely wealthy," Dr. Persson said. "The gold and silver probably came from Egypt at a time when the two ancient civilizations carried on a lively trade. She lived at about the time 1400 B. C."

Dr. Persson took a picture of a painting of the queen, found on a wall of the tomb, and superimposed on the picture photographs of rings, necklaces, and other articles.

He said he had learned a great deal about the religion of the Mycenaean culture from the scenes on the signet rings. They depict the vegetation cycle in nature.

About 1000 B. C. Mycenae was over-run during the Dorian Migration—a migration of barbarians. The ancient city continued to exist for centuries after but lost its importance.

CAUSES SHIFT IN SOIL PLAN

Demand For Soybeans Brings Revision of AAA Crop Plan in Richland County.

War abroad and defense preparations in the United States have boosted the demand for soybeans as a source of oil and fat, so the new AAA farm program has been revised to permit Richland county farmers to grow more beans this year, Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

While soybeans have been used to some extent as a soil-building crop, the government has placed restrictions on them to prevent a too great an increase in the output.

Taylor said the new regulations will raise the limit on bean acreage to apply to most farms which now produce soybeans. In a few cases, however, where the 1940 acreage was not considered a normal crop, the county AAA committee will set up acreage figures as a basis for farming operations this year, he said.

Although a good price is expected for beans because of the increasing demand, the department of agriculture is recommending a loan of 85 percent of parity, or about $1 per bushel, on beans that are stored for future sale.

LIVE!

• Nothing adds more to a home than good lighting. First, adequate lighting adds a cheerfulness and gaiety to rooms that simply cannot be obtained in dim, semi-dark rooms. Second, correct lighting brings out the color and lustre of furniture and furnishings, adds life to them, and makes them look newer and fresher.

Most important, proper lighting safeguards precious eyesight by eliminating two of the most common sources of eyestrain, namely, not enough light, and glaring light. Through countless centuries, human eyes were used outdoors in the bright sunlight. Now people use their eyes for the most part inside and, too often, under lights that produce only the tiniest fraction of the outdoor light eyes are used to. Eyestrain is the result... eyestrain that results in an unnecessary loss of nervous energy and puts a strain on the nervous system that can harm both the eyes and the entire human system. That is why you should make sure that your lighting is both adequate in amount and correct in quality. Remember, eyesight is priceless and good light is cheap.

So take advantage of the new, low electric rates that soon will go into effect in Mansfield. Turn on the lights in your home and enjoy it to the fullest... and at the same time give added protection to your most priceless possession—your eyes.

* Based on the average use by the average family if you are now paying from $1.85 to $2.60 a month for electric service. The amount of extra kilowatt hours you can use without increasing your electric service bill depends on your present usage.

You Meet Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember)

I've never seen William Saroyan dancing... Virginia Field, the blond cutie of "Panama Hat," is one girl who doesn't keep her dates waiting. She's usually at the stage door, ready to go, five or ten minutes before her beau is due.

Comedian Eddie Bracken bought a Dalmatian in Hollywood a few months ago—and because it was such a chic dog, he painted the doghouse with black spots on white, to match the pooch!

Hazel Forbes Richman, who owns some of the most fabulous jewels in town, thinks nothing of spending $250 for a dress—and also thinks nothing of topping all this splendor with a $298 hat. And she doesn't mind telling you that's all she paid for it!

Carmen Miranda on the street always looks like a technicolor picture of Carmen Miranda. She likes to wear bright purple or dazzling yellow, and her feet are always encased in shoes with four-inch-thick soles.

Debutante Hope Carroll does the conga at El Morocco as if seven talent scouts were watching her with contracts in their eyes.

The octogenarian who roller skates at the Rockefeller rink almost every afternoon is Frank A. Dowley, formerly valet to steel magnate John A. Cochrane. He says he's having fun now, making up for seventy years of hard work—and he can do tricks lots of kids can't.

Boris Karloff tells a funny story about his search for the worn, shiny, carbon-blue suit he wears in "Arsenic and Old Lace." He tried in even second-hand clothing store and every pawn shop in the city, spent dollars and dollars in taxi fare tracing clues in his hunt for the perfect down-and-outers uniform—and finally found just what he was looking for at a swank store.

Lefty Gomez loves to hang around aviators... John Buckmaster, the young English comedian, is probably the only person in the United States at the moment who knows how to play Rounders. This is the old English game from which Abner Doubleday evolved the modern sport of baseball.

Buckmaster teaches it to house party guests, but the rules are so complicated no one can ever remember them well enough to pass them on.

Gertrude Niesen's favorite pair of evening slippers have a real emerald embedded in each heel.

Jean Arthur is one Hollywood star who really dislikes night clubs and really likes being able to walk down a street unrecognized by fans.

Mel Marvin, the orchestra leader, is a certified public accountant, of all things that have nothing to do with music.

Grace Hartman plagues musicians sleeping between shows at Loew's State by drawing lipstick portraits on the tops of their bald heads.

Ethel Barrymore gets excited over the doings of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Sinclair Lewis likes to pose for news reel pictures with one hand cupping his ear in a picturesque fashion.

Babe Ruth eats his breakfast in a Japanese kimono presented to him by his admirers.

Edith Roark, the blond night club owner, has two refrigerators in her bistro, she'll tell you—one for groceries, the other for the flowers her admirers send.

Maxie Baer never finishes a conversation without getting in a plug for his baby boy.

Robert Sherwood's copy of F. D. R.'s book, "Public Papers and Addresses," is inscribed: "To Robert Emmet Sherwood, master, from his affectionate student, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Arthur Treacher really carries one of those neat, black, rolled-up comedy umbrellas.

Actress Erin O'Brien Moore owns two Japanese spaniels with Irish tags—Houlihan and Molly Aroon.

Lily Pons calls her country motor vehicle a "wagon station."

Ludwig Bemelmans, who writes those funny stories and draws those funny melting pictures, collects hotel stationery from all over.

It's easy to tell when Irene Bordoni is in a bistro—you can hear her chatter in French ten tables away.

Jimmy Van Heusen has only one piece of music in his Hollywood home—a framed manuscript, the original of Willard Robeson's "Old Folks," which the tunesmith thinks is the best song ever written.

HOLLYWOOD — You hear a lot of girls around Hollywood complaining because they don't want to play ingenues. Marsha Hunt, slim, blue-eyed, with a cutely turned nose and the ethereal quality of a Lillian Gish, is one who has done something about it.

Marsha is a girl who knows why she doesn't want to play ingenues. She isn't ethereal in her reasoning, either. She's down to earth.

"I must be an enormous ham at heart," she says. "Ingenue parts scare me. They're harder for me to play than anything else. I hate the way they're supposed to behave. They always get sore at the hero. They're so painfully righteous. If they had any sense, they'd say, Marsha Hunt's one "act" ushered her into Hollywood six years ago.

She was 17, a year out of school in New York, a Powers model, and she had been acting to get into movies as long as she could remember. She arrived on a "visit" in May, 1935, and told train-meeting photographers she had no interest whatever in pictures. Hollywood, of course, broke its back trying to interest her—just as her uncle, whom she was visiting, knew it would.

She had an offer seven days later, then a Paramount contract, after which she freely confessed the plot.

REPRIEVE SAVES
WOMAN FROM GAS CHAMBERHad Been Scheduled To Die
For Slaying of Young
Member of Gang.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal. (AP)—An eleven-hour reprieve today saved Mrs. Juanita (The Duchess) Spinelli, 51, from the gas chamber. She had been scheduled to die for the murder of Robert Sierrard, 19, the youngest member of her gang.

Gov. Culbert Olson telephoned Warden Clinton Duffy late last night that Superior Judge Ray Coughlin, who tried her, had requested a stay of execution.

Olson ordered her execution postponed 30 days.

When Mrs. Spinelli, who had resigned herself to death, heard the news, tears came to her eyes, and she fell on her knees and prayed.

"Thank God, He has listened to my prayers," she cried. "I hope He will find a way to get the truth. Maybe Mike (Mike Simone, her common-law husband convicted with her) will tell the truth now."

Governor Olson said he also had been requested by the foreman of the jury that found her guilty and by the Men's League of Mercy of the United States, with an office in Los Angeles, to grant her a reprieve. The league's petition was signed by a number of clergymen.

Had Mrs. Spinelli died today, she would have been the first woman legally executed in California. Prison officials said she would have been the first woman in the United States executed by gas.

Sierrard, 32, and Gordon Hawkins, 21, are scheduled to be executed next Friday for the murder of Sierrard.

The state charged that Mrs. Spinelli came here from Detroit and organized the gang, which killed Leland Cash, who resisted when they held up his San Francisco barbecue stand. Sierrard "talked too much," and they feared he would inform on them.

Mrs. Spinelli put "knockout" drops in Sierrard's drink, it was charged, and the gang sank him in the Sacramento river.

John Barber, Retired Farmer,
Succumbs at Home.

John S. Barber, 87, retired farmer and life-long Mansfield resident, died of a heart attack at his home in Madison township early this morning. He was born on May 14, 1854.

Survivors are his widow, Allie Moore; Barber; two sisters, Mrs. Cora Connell of Cleveland and Mrs. Alice Brown of Shelby; and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body will be taken to the home Saturday morning where friends may call until noon Monday.

Services will be held in the Finck funeral home at 2 p. m. Monday in charge of Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, assisted by Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of First Christian church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

WINS AWARD FOR WAR ARTICLESKenneth Downs Honored For Series Describing Status
of French.

ATLANTIC CITY—(INS)—Kenneth Downs, ace foreign correspondent of International News Service who now is in Syria covering hostilities there, today was named a winner in the 1941 journalistic achievement awards of the National Headliner's club.

Downs appeared in Mansfield last fall speaking at a joint meeting of civic clubs. The series of articles for which he received the award appeared recently in The News-Journal.

Angus Perkinson, magazine editor of the Atlanta, Ga., Journal and chairman of the club's award committee, announced that Downs had been cited for the greatest example of individual initiative displayed by any foreign correspondent.

The award was based upon a series written by Downs after he had made an unprecedented tour of both unoccupied and occupied France, slipping across the rigidly guarded demarcation line under the eyes of German guards and finally reaching Lisbon to write his dispatches without censorship.

Water Fountains?
Well, City'll Act
Sometime—Maybe

Although a new $25 water fountain was installed at Maple Lake park last month as a "test," Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton admitted yesterday that the city had received no data on its performance and that no plans had been made for the purchase of nine additional fountains.

The fountain was placed in Maple Lake park at the insistence of Mayor William J. Locke after Crafton had previously ordered it placed at Park avenue and Walnut street.

Crafton had designated that corner upon the expressed wish of city council members before purchasing nine additional ones to replace downtown fountains. Council has already appropriated $250 for the purchase of the fountains.

The fountains were to be installed as a sanitary and economy measure. Although Health Commissioner R. C. Rehder said that the fountain was the type approved by the state health commission, Mayor Locke said that he doubted that they were needed. He pointed out that the present fountains kept the city's water supply constantly circulating.

Locke, however, signed the ordinance appropriating the funds for their purchase.

AS PRELUDE TO BIG MANEUVERS

LEESVILLE, La.—(AP)—Two divisions of northern troops go into the field Sunday against an imaginary enemy and some real umpires in a prelude to gigantic U. S. army maneuvers scheduled for September.

The two divisions, aggregating 38,000 men, are: the 37th from Ohio under command of Maj.-Gen. Robert S. Beightler, and the 32nd from Michigan and Wisconsin under command of Maj.-Gen. Irving A. Fish.

MARCH TONIGHT

Scouts To Parade at Shelby
as 3-Day Camp Feature.

Led by the American Legion drum corps from Mansfield and Galion, Mansfield Boy Scouts will join over 600 other scouts from the Johnny Appleseed area for the climax of the three-day campfire tonight.

Boy and Girl Scouts will march through town to the W. W. Skiles' a bi-ethnic stadium where the program will begin at 8 p. m. There the scouts will see a moving picture show, join in singing and hear a short talk by Floyd Dent, area executive from Mansfield.

Also on the program will be fire making, rope tying, boxing the compass and tent pitching contests. The Hillier award for troop achievement and the President's cup will be awarded.

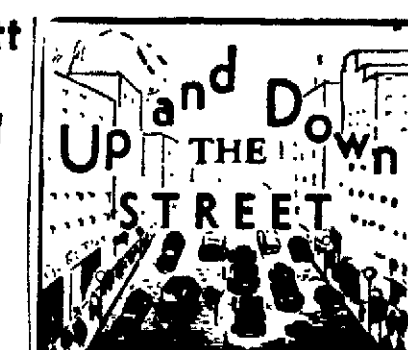

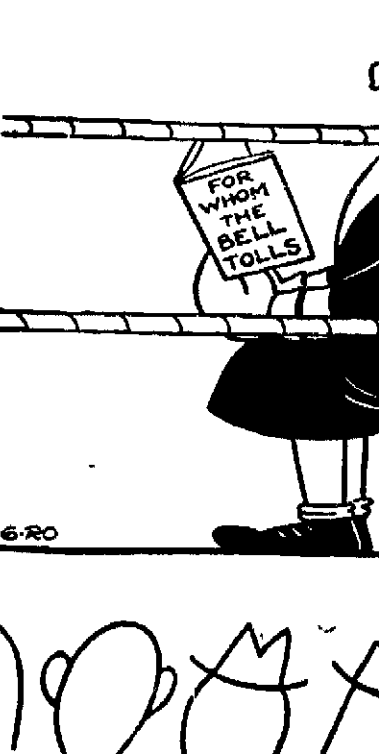

SAYS STATE COG
IN U. S. DEFENSEGovernor Bricker Says Ohio Has Vital Role In Program.

CANTON—(INS)—Ohio is a vital cog in the national defense program, Gov. John W. Bricker had declared today, and "we shall build and build so strong that the spirit and strength of America will be heard in every corner of the world."

Bricker, addressing several thousand at the annual citizenship day celebration at Meyers Lake park last night, said:

"Ohio has built highways to defense plants, established training courses in our schools and coordinated our governmental activities for the building of a strong America."

Laff-a-Day

Witnesses at the opening ceremonies of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad overhead crossing will see the first spadeful of earth turned up with a gold shovel. No date has been set for the ceremonies as yet because federal approval is needed for construction to start. City, county and state officials are expected to take part in the opening program, and the "gold shovel" is already in the process of being plated.

Three members of the Robin Hood club, summer reading course for third to ninth grade students, hit the bull's-eye today on the club target at Mansfield Public Library by completing the required 10 books and submitting written reports on the same. Two sisters, Linda Skelton, third grade, and Jeannine Skelton, seventh grade, and Mary Louise Henry, sixth grade, are the first three eligible for reading certificates when they are awarded next September.

The maternity section of General hospital has again improved an incubator to aid in the birth of a young one. This time it happens to be two turtle eggs that were left in the nurses' care. The eggs have been placed in a cotton filled basket and are basking under the warm rays of a reading light. The turtles' chances of entering the regular baby ward are extremely limited, however. The ward is full already.

The persistence of Richland county grand juries in recommending larger quarters for women at the county jail and the construction of a special cell for insane persons always attracts comment at the courthouse, but it gets no results. A jury last night made the same recommendations after inspecting the jail. Virtually every jury for several years has recommended the changes at the jail, but nothing has been done. "Maybe if they keep at it long enough there will be something done one of these times," one of the courthouse deputies commented today.

OFF ON TRIP

Crafton To Inspect Sewage
Works While Vacationing.

Although Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton left today on a short vacation, he announced that he would mix business with pleasure.

After a short stay with his wife's parents at Mansfield, Ind., Crafton will visit the sewage disposal plant at Springfield, Ill., to collect information which might be helpful in solving many technical problems which have arisen in the Mansfield plant.

Crafton conferred yesterday with J. R. Turner, superintendent of the city's sewage disposal plant, and obtained some data which Turner asked to have checked at the Springfield plant.

Although the Mansfield plant is operating at present, its efficiency has not approached that of last year before the city began by-passing untreated sewage into Rocky Fork creek.

TELEPHONE, AFL DISPUTE SEEN

Call Out Workers Unless
Row's Settled.

BULLETIN
COLUMBUS—(INS)—"Solely in the interests of national defense," more than 1,500 AFL construction workers remained on the job today at the huge, erdale, 711 Bowman street. plane factory being erected at Port Columbus airport, despite a dispute which flared between union workmen and the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A strike threat at the $12,000,000 Curtiss-Wright plane factory at Port Columbus flared into the open today as a dispute between American Federation of Labor officials and the Ohio Bell Telephone company was revealed.

A. F. of L. officials asserted that "all building tradesmen will be pulled off the job if necessary" on construction of the national defense plant if the dispute is not settled.

The controversy started when 156 electrical workers walked off the job in protest to the installation of equipment by the telephone company with non-union men.

If all workers affiliated with the Columbus Federation of Labor are called off the job, between 1,400 and 1,700 employees would be affected and result in the discontinuance of construction work, now about 90 per cent completed.

At a federation meeting every union connected with the building trades council (AFL) voted unanimously to "support the Electrical Workers in their walkout."

Arthur Bennett, national vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, came to Columbus from Cleveland to attend the strike meeting. Bennett asserted that "at all other Curtiss-Wright plants under construction, we have installed telephone equipment and there is no reason why we can not do it at the Port Columbus plant."

Meanwhile, Paul Denning, district commercial manager of the Telephone company, declared that the installation probably would be completed today.

It was understood the office of production management in Washington had been informed of the dispute and that an OPM representative may come to Columbus.

Aviatix Praises
Bomber Following
Britain Flight

LONDON—(INS)—Bubbling over with enthusiasm for the plane, Jacqueline Cochran described today how she flew a Lockheed Hudson (American-built) bomber across the Atlantic from Canada to Britain for service with the R. A. F.

The famous aviatix who is America's No. 1 woman flier and the first woman to pilot an American-built bomber to Britain, told International News Service:

"I had a wonderful trip. It was completely without incident. "My companion was Capt. Graf. E. Carlisle. He did the navigating and I was at the controls the whole way over."

"The ship was wonderful to handle. I have flown all the types of Lockheed that have been built, but this was my first Atlantic flight."

Miss Minnie Desenberg, 71. Succumbs at Ashland.

ASHLAND—Miss Minnie Desenberg, 71, died yesterday at Samaritan hospital four days after suffering a stroke. She was a lifelong resident of Ashland.

She was a member of the Trinity Lutheran church, where services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. with Rev. A. H. Smith in charge.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Lulu Desenberg of Ashland. Friends may call until 2:30 p. m. Saturday, at the Mowery funeral home. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

PLANE ENGINES BY FORD NEAR CASTING STAGE

New, Supercharged Motor Is Set For Production By June.

DETROIT—(AP)—Henry Ford's airplane engine, an advance into new fields will be ready for production in June, officials disclose. Tests on a two-cylinder segment of the motor have been completed and only a few details of the super-charger system must be worked out before actual production orders are placed.

Army officials, anxious to get the powerful new motor into fighting planes, have closely watched tests through all stages and are exerting pressure on Ford engineers to rush final details, an official said.

The Ford engine, 12-cylinder, V-type, will be the third liquid-cooled job to be used in American warplanes. The Allison, of slightly more than 1,000 horsepower, currently is powering Bell, Curtiss and Lockheed pursuit ships, while the Rolls-Royce Merlin, a British engine, soon will be turned out for the same jobs by the Packard Motor Car company.

Ford officials say the new power plant will out-perform any other of the same cubic inch cylinder displacement now in use. It is expected to churn up between 1,800 and 2,000 horsepower at 3,600 R.P.M., and send the weight-to-power ratio below one pound per horsepower. The lightest engine now in use in the army air corps weighs about 1.2 pounds per horsepower.

Ford engineers said the basis for most of the extra power is the supercharger, which will be in use 100 per cent at all altitudes. It is driven by an exhaust turbine with no mechanical connection to the engine, a revolutionary principle which achieves a perfect aerodynamic condition because the air intake and exhaust are in the direction of flight so there is no drag from the intake and a propulsion effect from the exhaust.

Injection of fuel directly into the cylinder without going through a carburetor makes it possible for the supercharger to push air alone into the chamber, better cooling the exhaust valve and piston head, it was said.

Supercharging at ground level—now currently practiced—increases horsepower 100 per cent over the normal output, engineers said.

Typical Ford automobile mass production methods are to be used on the engine and special features to make production short-outs have been developed. One is the casting of certain parts such as cylinder sleeves and crankshaft instead of forging them to an approximate shape and spending tedious hours machining them to required size.

Two Ohio Wives Want Husbands Drafted at Once

WAPAKONETA, O.—(AP)—At least two Auglaize county women have asked the county draft board, rather than the domestic relations court to settle their marital problems.

One wife asked the board to place her husband in the A-1 classification, available for immediate service, because "he is running around with other women."

Another spouse explained that her husband had gone to his parents home with the statement that he no longer could support her. She preferred, she said to have him in the army rather than live at home.

SWEDISH ARCHEOLOGIST UNFOLDS NEW SECRETS OF GREEK CITY

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Important discoveries of Mycenaean culture were unfolded today by Dr. Axel W. Persson, white-haired Swedish archeologist who arrived in San Francisco recently to give a series of spring lectures at the University of California.

Dr. Persson, professor of classical archaeology and ancient history at the University of Uppsala in Sweden, has spent twenty years exploring the buried ruins of prehistoric Greek cities.

His discoveries in the ruins of Mycenae, a prehistoric city which flourished a thousand years before the Golden Age of Pericles, added valuable archaeological information to the record of Mycenaean culture.

From tiny scenes worked on gold signet rings he found in a Mycenaean tomb, Dr. Persson has been able to outline the religious rites and a large part of the characteristics of the civilization of the ancient people.

Mycenae occupied a prominent place in the legends of Homer. Its culture, one of the richest in ancient history, spread throughout the eastern Mediterranean, and its kings sailed against Troy.

In 1926, Dr. Persson began exploring the tomb of a Mycenaean king at the city of Derna, near the buried ruins of the ancient city of Mycenae. Just before the war broke out in 1939 he uncovered the tomb of a queen within 50 yards of the king's burial place.

In the queen's tomb he found magnificent works of art—gold drinking cups and signet rings; gold necklaces and beads; the first known silver spoon.

"The queen must have been extremely wealthy," Dr. Persson said. "The gold and silver probably came from Egypt at a time when the two ancient civilizations carried on a lively trade. She lived at about the time 1400 B. C."

Dr. Persson took a picture of a painting of the queen, found on a wall of the tomb, and superimposed on the picture photographs of rings, necklaces, and other articles.

He said he had learned a great deal about the religion of the Mycenaean culture from the scenes on the signet rings. They depict the vegetation cycle in nature.

About 1000 B. C., Mycenae was over-run during the Dorian Migration—a migration of barbarians. The ancient city continued to exist for centuries after but lost its importance.

PAYS DAMAGE

TROY, N. Y.—(UP)—Mrs. N. A. Engler would like to find the person who broke the window on her front porch storm door. Mrs. Engler does not want to have the person pay for the damage. She wants to return some money.

A few weeks after the window was broken Mrs. Engler found a note and 25 cents at her doorstep. The note said the money was for the damage. Since then two other quarters were left at the doorstep. New glass cost only 29 cents.

CAUSES SHIFT IN SOIL PLAN

Demand For Soybeans Brings Revision of AAA Crop Plan In Richland County.

War abroad and defense preparations in the United States have boosted the demand for soybeans as a source of oil and fat, so the new AAA farm program has been revised to permit Richland county farmers to grow more beans this year, Guy L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

While soybeans have been used to some extent as a soil-building crop, the government has placed restrictions on them to prevent a too great an increase in the output.

Taylor said the new regulations will raise the limit on bean acreage to apply to most farms which now produce soybeans. In a few cases, however, where the 1940 acreage was not considered a normal crop, the county AAA committee will set up acreage figures as a basis for farming operations this year, he said.

Although a good price is expected for beans because of the increasing demand, the department of agriculture is recommending a loan of 85 percent of parity, or about $1 per bushel, on beans that are stored for future sale.

When MANSFIELD'S
New Low Electric Rates GO INTO EFFECT

You Can Use
50% MORE LIGHTING
WITHOUT ADDING A CENT TO YOUR PRESENT ELECTRIC BILL*

... so turn on the lights and LIVE!

• Nothing adds more to a home than good lighting. First, adequate lighting adds a cheerfulness and gaiety to rooms that simply cannot be obtained in dim, semi-dark rooms. Second, correct lighting brings out the color and lustre of furniture and furnishings, adds life to them, and makes them look newer and fresher.

Most important, proper lighting safeguards precious eyesight by eliminating two of the most common sources of eyestrain, namely, not enough light, and glaring light. Through countless centuries, human eyes were used outdoors in the bright sunlight. Now people use their eyes for the most part inside and, too often, under lights that produce only the tiniest fraction of the outdoor light eyes are used to. Eyestrain is the result... eyestrain that results in an unnecessary loss of nervous energy and puts a strain on the nervous system that can harm both the eyes and the entire human system. That is why you should make sure that your lighting is both adequate in amount and correct in quality. Remember, eyesight is priceless and good light is cheap.

So take advantage of the new, low electric rates that soon will go into effect in Mansfield. Turn on the lights in your home and enjoy it to the fullest... and at the same time give added protection to your most priceless possession—your eyes.

* Based on the average use by the average family if you are now paying from $1.85 to $2.60 a month for electric service. The amount of extra kilowatt hours you can use without increasing your electric service bill depends on your present usage.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Meet Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember)

I've never seen William Saroyan dancing. . . . Virginia Field, the blond cutie of "Panama Hat," is one girl who doesn't keep her dates waiting. She's usually at the stage door, ready to go, five or ten minutes before her beau is due.

Comedian Eddie Bracken bought a Dalmatian in Hollywood a few months ago—and because it was such a chic dog, he painted the doghouse with black spots on white, to match the pooch! . . . Hazel Forbes Richman, who owns some of the most fabulous jewels in town, thinks nothing of spending $250 for a dress—and also thinks nothing of topping all this splendor with a $298 hat. And she doesn't mind telling you that's all she paid for it!

Debutante Hope Carroll does the conga at El Morocco as if seven talent scouts were watching her with contracts in their eyes.

The octogenarian who roller skates at the Rockefeller rink almost every afternoon is Frank A. Dowley, formerly valet to steel magnate John A. Cochrane. He says he's having fun now, making up for seventy years of hard work—and he can do tricks lots of kids can't.

Boris Karloff tells a funny story about his search for the worn, shiny, carbon-blue suit he wears in "Arsenic and Old Lace." He tried in every second-hand clothing store and every pawn shop in the city, spent dollars and dollars in taxi fare tracing clues in his hunt for the perfect down-and-outers' uniform—and finally found just what he was looking for at a swank store.

Lefty Gomez loves to hang around aviators. . . . John Buckmaster, the young English comedian, is probably the only person in the United States at the moment who knows how to play Rounders. This is the old English game from which Abner Doubleday evolved the modern sport of baseball.

Buckmaster teaches it to house-

party guests, but the rules are so complicated no one can ever remember them well enough to pass them on.

Gertrude Niesen's favorite pair of evening slippers have a real emerald embedded in each heel. . . . Jean Arthur is one Hollywood star who really dislikes night clubs and really likes being able to walk down a street unrecognized by fans. . . .

Mel Marvin, the orchestra leader, is a certified public accountant, of all things that have nothing to do with music. . . . Grace Hartman plagues musicians sleeping between shows at Loew's State by drawing lipstick portraits on the tops of their bald heads. . . . Ethel Barrymore gets excited over the doings of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Sinclair Lewis likes to pose for news pictures with one hand cupping his ear in a picturesque fashion. . . . Babe Ruth eats his breakfast in a Japanese kimono presented to him by his admirers. . . . Edith Roark, the blond night club owner, has two refrigerators in her bistro, she'll tell you—one for groceries, the other for the flowers her admirers send. . . .

Earl Carroll and Enrico Caruso once collaborated on a song—but they couldn't sell it. . . . When Ruby Keeler reads (and she often does) she uses a lorgnette.

Most of the grandfather roles on radio programs are played by Peter Donald—who is twenty-three years old!

Maxie Baer never finishes a conversation without getting in a "plug" for his baby boy. . . . Robert Sherwood's copy of F. D. R.'s book, "Public Papers and Addresses," is inscribed: "To Robert Emmet Sherwood, master, from his affectionate student, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Arthur Treacher really carries one of those neat, black, rolled-up comedy umbrellas. . . . Actress Edna O'Brien Moore owns two Japanese spaniels with Irish tags—Houlihan and Molly Aroon. Lily Pons calls her country motor vehicle a "wagon station."

Ludwig Bemelmans, who writes those funny stories and draws those funny melting pictures, collects hotel stationery from all over.

It's easy to tell when Irene Bordoni is in a bistro—you can hear her chatter in French ten tables away. . . . Jimmy Van Heusen has only one piece of music in his Hollywood home—a framed manuscript, the original of Willard Roberson's "Old Folks," which the tunesmith thinks is the best song ever written.

Marsha is telling all today in the apartment she and husband Jerry Hopper, film editor, will soon be leaving for their new house in the valley. She's fresh as the spring morning, but Pupchen, alas, needs a bath. Pupchen, her Bedlington terrier, shows unmistakable signs of tattletale gray.

Marsha Hunt's one "act" ushered her into Hollywood six years ago. . . . She was 17, a year out of school in New York, a Powers model, and she had been acting to get into movies as long as she could remember. She arrived on a "visit" in May, 1935, and told train-meeting photographers she had no interest whatever in pictures. Hollywood, of course, broke its back trying to interest her—just as her uncle, whom she was visiting, knew it would.

She had an offer seven days later, then a Paramount contract, after which she freely confessed the plot.

Chatter Corner

(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Hildred Fackler (clerk of courts office) reading tourist literature and trying to decide where to go for her vacation. . . . Mrs. C. L. Mitchell, wife of the county commissioner, spraining her ankle in a fall on the steps at her home and missing a two-weeks vacation trip to Canada.

Mrs. Eva Kemp, Glessner avenue, recovering from a broken arm sustained when she fell in her home. . . . Plumbing Inspector Fred Hague talking with Assistant Health Commissioner William Wild. . . . Sybil Scott, city health nurse, conferring with Claude Watts at police headquarters. . . . Ray Hines, storm water sewer inspector, darting out of Mayor William J. Locke's office.

Jane Stough of the Red Cross office telling about the two bridal showers she attended this week.

REPRIEVE SAVES
GAS CHAMBER

Had Been Scheduled To Die
For Slaying of Young
Member of Gang.

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal. (AP)—An eleventh hour reprieve today saved Mrs. Juanita (The Duchess) Spinelli, 51, from the gas chamber. She had been scheduled to die for the murder of Robert Sierrard, 19, the youngest member of her gang.

Gov. Culbert Olson telephoned Warden Clinton Duffy late last night that Superior Judge Ray Coughlin, who tried her, had requested a stay of execution.

Olson ordered her execution postponed 30 days. When Mrs. Spinelli, who had resigned herself to death, heard the news, tears came to her eyes, and she fell on her knees and prayed. "Thank God, He has listened to my prayers," she cried. "I hope He will find a way to get the truth. Maybe Mike (Mike Simione, her common-law husband convicted with her) will tell the truth now."

Governor Olson said he also had been requested by the foreman of the jury that found her guilty and by the Men's League of Mercy of the United States, with an office in Los Angeles, to grant her a reprieve. The league's petition was signed by a number of clergymen.

Had Mrs. Spinelli died today, she would have been the first woman legally executed in California. Prison officials said she would have been the first woman in the United States executed by gas.

Simione, 32, and Gordon Hawkins, 21, are scheduled to be executed next Friday for the murder of Sierrard.

"The state charged that Mrs. Spinelli came here from Detroit and organized the gang, which killed Leland Cash, who resisted when they held up his San Francisco barbecue stand. Sierrard 'talked too much,' and they feared he would inform on them," Mrs. Spinelli put "knockout" drops in Sierrard's drink, it was charged, and the gang sank him in the Sacramento river.

WINS AWARD FOR WAR ARTICLES

Kenneth Downs Honored For Series Describing Status
of French.

ATLANTIC CITY—(INS)—Kenneth Downs, ace foreign correspondent of International News Service who now is in Syria covering hostilities there, today was named a winner in the 1941 journalistic achievement awards of the National Headliner's club.

Downs appeared in Mansfield last fall speaking at a joint meeting of civic clubs. The series of articles for which he received the award appeared recently in The News-Journal.

Angus Perkinson, magazine editor of the Atlanta, Ga., Journal and chairman of the club's award committee, announced that Downs had been cited for the greatest example of individual initiative displayed by any foreign correspondent. The award was based upon a series written by Downs after he had made an unprecedented tour of both unoccupied and occupied France, slipping across the rigidly guarded demarcation line under the eyes of German guards and finally reaching Lisbon to write his dispatches without censorship.

Water Fountains?
Well, City'll Act
Sometime—Maybe

Although a new $25 water fountain was installed at Maple Lake park last month as a "test," Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton admitted yesterday that the city had received no data on its performance and that no plans had been made for the purchase of nine additional fountains.

The fountain was placed in Maple Lake park at the insistence of Mayor William J. Locke after Crafton had previously ordered it placed at Park avenue and Walnut street.

Crafton had designated that corner upon the expressed wish of city council wanting to give the fountain an adequate test before purchasing nine additional ones to replace downtown fountains. Council has already appropriated $250 for the purchase of the fountains. The fountains were to be installed as a sanitary and economy measure. Although Health Commissioner R. C. Rehder said that the fountain was the type approved by the state health commission, Mayor Locke said that he doubted that they were needed. He pointed out that the present fountains kept the city's water supply constantly circulating. Locke, however, signed the ordinance appropriating the funds for their purchase.

PLANT OPENS

CANTON—(INS)—Operations on a limited scale were in progress today at the $16,500,000 naval ordnance plant only 143 days after ground was broken, and far ahead of expectations. A few of the 50 machine units installed in the first of four buildings to be completed began turning out gun parts yesterday as work was rushed to complete the other three buildings on the 112-acre tract.

TROOPS GO INTO FIELD SUNDAY
AS PRELUDE TO BIG MANEUVERS

LEESVILLE, La.—(AP)—Two divisions of northern troops go into the field Sunday against an imaginary enemy and some real umpires in a prelude to gigantic U. S. army maneuvers scheduled for September.

The two divisions, aggregating 38,000 men, are: the 37th from Ohio under command of Maj.-Gen. Robert S. Beighler, and the 32nd from Michigan and Wisconsin under command of Maj.-Gen. Irving A. Fish.

They take their position by 8 a. m. Sunday to fight side-by-side against the imaginary enemy concocted for field problems. Just to make the mimic war have a semblance of reality, opposition will be impersonated by 2,000 enlisted men and officers from the 34th division out of Camp Claiborne.

The first problem set for the two northern divisions will be worked out in field exercises on Monday and Tuesday. The second problem will come on Thursday and Friday.

For all purposes, the "war" has been waged since 8 a. m. Monday morning after Lieut.-Gen. Walter Krueger established his contact center in the Leesville high school and Maj.-Gen. E. L. Daley of the Fifth army corps has set up his command post in the Boyce high school.

Only the officers have had work-outs this week in "command exercises." They have been without troops, learning to co-ordinate their command before the troops arrive.

As far as the officers are concerned this mock war has been real. "Alarms" break at odd moments, and the brass hats dash to their posts. A "Red" advance reported by defending "Blue" outposts tumbled officers from their bunks. General Daley, still in his pajamas, ran into his office. Col. G. M. Peek, chief of staff of the Fifth army corps, appeared in his bathrobe. General Daley estimated the situation, dispatched orders to his staff and mechanics were set in operation to meet the threatened attack.

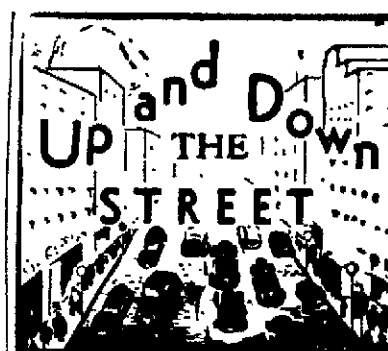

SAYS STATE COG
IN U. S. DEFENSE

Governor Bricker Says Ohio Has
Vital Role In Program.

CANTON—(INS)—Ohio is a vital cog in the national defense program, Gov. John W. Bricker had declared today, and "we shall build and build so strong that the spirit and strength of America will be heard in every corner of the world."

Bricker, addressing several thousand at the annual citizenship day celebration at Meyers Lake park last night, said: "Ohio has built highways to defense plants, established training courses in our schools and coordinated our governmental activities for the building of a strong America."

Laff-a-Day

Witnesses at the opening ceremonies of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad overhead crossing will see the first spadeful of earth turned up with a gold shovel. No date has been set for the ceremonies as yet because federal approval is needed for construction to start. City, county and state officials are expected to take part in the opening program, and the "gold shovel" is already in the process of being plated.

Three members of the Robin Hood club, summer reading course for third to ninth grade students, hit the bull's-eye today on the club target at Mansfield Public library by completing the required 10 books and submitting written reports on the same. Two sisters, Linda Skelton, third grade, and Jeannine Skelton, seventh grade, and Mary Louise Henry, sixth grade, are the first three eligible for reading certificates when they are awarded next September.

The maternity section of General hospital has again improvised an incubator to aid in the birth of a young one. This time it happens to be two turtle eggs that were left in the nurses' care. The eggs have been placed in a cotton filled basket and are basking under the warm rays of a reading light. The turtles' chances of entering the regular baby ward are extremely limited, however. The ward is full already.

The persistence of Richland county grand juries in recommending larger quarters for women at the county jail and the construction of a special cell for insane persons always attracts comment at the courthouse, but it gets no results. A new jury last night made the same recommendations after inspecting the jail. Virtually every jury for several years has recommended the changes at the jail, but nothing has been done. "Maybe if they keep at it long enough there will be something done one of these times," one of the courthouse deputies commented today.

OFF ON TRIP

Crafton To Inspect Sewage
Works While Vacationing.

Although Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton left today on a short vacation, he announced that he would mix business with pleasure.

After a short stay with his wife's parents at Mansfield, Ind., Crafton will visit the sewage disposal plant at Springfield, Ill., to collect information which might be helpful in solving many technical problems which have arisen in the Mansfield plant.

Crafton conferred yesterday with J. R. Turner, superintendent of the city's sewage disposal plant, and obtained some data which Turner asked to have checked at the Springfield plant.

Although the Mansfield plant is operating at present, its efficiency has not approached that of last year before the city began by-passing untreated sewage into Rocky Fork creek.

Labor Officials Say They'll
Row's Settled.

BULLETIN
COLUMBUS—(INS)—"Solely in the interests of national defense," more than 1,500 AFL construction workers remained on the job today at the huge, erdale, 711 Bowman street, plane factory being erected at Port Columbus airport, despite a dispute which flared between union workmen and the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A strike threat at the $12,000,000 Curtiss-Wright plane factory at Port Columbus flared into the open today as a dispute between American Federation of Labor officials and the Ohio Bell Telephone company was revealed. A. F. of L. officials asserted that "all building tradesmen will be pulled off the job if necessary" on construction of the national defense plant if the dispute is not settled. The controversy started when 156 electrical workers walked off the job in protest to the installation of equipment by the telephone company with non-union men.

If all workers affiliated with the Columbus Federation of Labor are called off the job, between 1,400 and 1,700 employees would be affected and result in the discontinuance of construction work, now about 90 per cent completed.

At a federation meeting every union connected with the building trades council (AFL) voted unanimously to "support the Electrical Workers in their walkout."

Arthur Bennett, national vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, came to Columbus from Cleveland to attend the strike meeting. Bennett asserted that "at all other Curtiss-Wright plants under construction, we have installed telephone equipment and there is no reason why we can not do it at the Port Columbus plant."

Meanwhile, Paul Denning, district commercial manager of the Telephone company, declared that the installation probably would be completed today.

It was understood the office of production management in Washington had been informed of the dispute and that an OPM representative may come to Columbus.

Aviatrix Praises
Bomber Following
Britain Flight

LONDON—(INS)—Bubbling over with enthusiasm for the plane, Jacqueline Cochran described today how she flew a Lockheed Hudson (American-built) bomber across the Atlantic from Canada to Britain for service with the R. A. F.

The famous aviatrix who is America's No. 1 woman flier and the first woman to pilot an American-built bomber to Britain, told International News Service:

"I had a wonderful trip. It was completely without incident. My companion was Capt. Graf. E. Carlisle. He did the navigating and I was at the controls the whole way over."

"The ship was wonderful to handle. I have flown all the types of Lockheed's that have been built, but this was my first Atlantic flight."

RITES HELD FOR
H. C. BRUNE, 64

Resident of Mansfield 23 Years
Buried at Wapakoneta.

Funeral services were held yesterday at his former home in Wapakoneta, O., for Henry C. Brune, 64, of 446 Cline avenue. Mr. Brune had lived in Mansfield for 23 years and was formerly employed at the Ohio Brass company. He died Tuesday after a long illness and his body was taken to Wapakoneta for services and burial in Greenlawn cemetery there.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Wilhelmine Brune, two sons, Irvin and Cletus, both of Mansfield, and two grandchildren.

DIES AT HOME

Miss Minnie Desenberg, 71, Succumbs at Ashland.

ASHLAND—Miss Minnie Desenberg, 71, died yesterday at Samaritan hospital four days after suffering a stroke. She was a lifelong resident of Ashland. She was a member of the Trinity Lutheran church where services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. with Rev. A. H. Smith in charge. She is survived by a sister, Miss Lulu Desenberg of Ashland. Friends may call until 2:30 p. m. Saturday, at the Mowery funeral home. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

WOMEN EAGER FOR CANADIAN WAR SERVICE

Corps Undergo Training and Expect Official Army Induction.

HALIFAX, N. S.—(AP)—Training regularly and industriously, members of the Nova Scotia Women's Service Corps, Headquarters Division, look hopefully to the day when the government will grant them, with similar organizations throughout Canada, the right to become an official part of the defense forces of Canada.

At present they are unofficial. They are not recognized by military authorities and have no legitimate standing. Their uniforms are what they want to make them. And there is no pay.

Organized last July, the Halifax unit now has about 100 volunteers. Guiding light of the movement locally was Miss M. Mumford, now commander-in-chief. She sees the present complement as the nucleus around which a much larger unit will be built when official recognition comes.

Two nights a week members assemble in the armories for training. With volunteer instructors from local permanent force units they study squad and company drill, first aid, signalling, map reading, commissariat, anti-gas technique, and most important of all, transport.

Already a number of members have qualified as transport drivers and are eager to be put to work either in Canada or overseas. The training included automobile and motorcycle driving, care and maintenance. Map-reading was a supplementary study.

The Halifax unit was the first to be formed in the Maritimes, and is affiliated with a similar organization in British Columbia. The latter came into being long before war was declared. Later a Women's Volunteer Reserve Corps was formed in Sydney, N. S., in affiliation with the Montreal Corps. Now Halifax is organizing a branch at Truro, N. S.

The girls who attend these classes are obviously not the type who come because they have nothing else to do. Many of them must have given up social engagements to attend. They looked neat and smart in their khaki uniforms and peaked caps, but they would be equally at home in evening frocks.

"When official recognition is granted, and we have had hints that it won't be long, we hope that Princess Alice, wife of the governor general, will consent to become our commander-in-chief," Miss Mumford said. "In the meantime we are going ahead with our training so that we shall be ready when the opportunity comes. Military officials here have been very helpful in providing instructors."

Trip to School Of Girl Costs State $1 a Day

PRUDENCE ISLAND, R. I.—(AP)—Eight-year-old Janice Silva is going to school again, but it's costing the state $1 a day to keep her there. Last November, Janice's father and the school committee disagreed over responsibility for transporting the child from her home to the school on the other end of this island—a distance of five miles.

Janice didn't attend school until the problem was solved by having the father drive his daughter to school in the morning and back at night. The school committee of the town of Portsmouth, which supervises Prudence, combines with the state to pay 5 cent a mile for the service.

Silva is paid for ten trips daily from home to school with Janice from school to home without Janice from home to school without Janice and from school to home with Janice.

CLINTON, N. Y.—(AP)—The Greeks are popular in Hamilton college.

Recently the 129-year-old educational institution decided to inaugurate a new method of awarding an A B degree. The new method eliminated Greek or Latin from the course. Prof. Donald B. Durham of the Greek department anticipated a sharp decline in the number of students taking the course.

However, 34 students elected to include the course. A year ago only 30 enrolled.

PROTESTS SEEN ON ROAD PLAN

Last Hearing on Perryville-Newville Thoroughfare To Bring Scrap.

Final hearing next Monday on the establishment of the new Perryville-Newville road near the Pleasant Hill dam is expected to bring a flood of protests from property owners in southeastern Richland county as the dispute over the road continues.

The road, which is being constructed by the federal government to replace one in the Pleasant Hill lake district, is shorter than property owners think it should be to serve them adequately, County Engineer Howard Sword said.

County commissioners, who will conduct the hearing in their office, have twice postponed hearings on abandonment of the old road, waiting for completion of the new route. Commissioners indicated the hearing set for Monday may be continued if there are too many protests and the new road is not ready for use.

The government agreed to build the road and turn it over to the county for maintenance. It is less than three miles long and terminates at the McCurdy road inside the Richland county line.

Property owners in the Pleasant Hill area believe it should extend across the line into Ashland county to give them a proper outlet, the county engineer said.

Museum Piece Goes Berserk In Highway Mishap

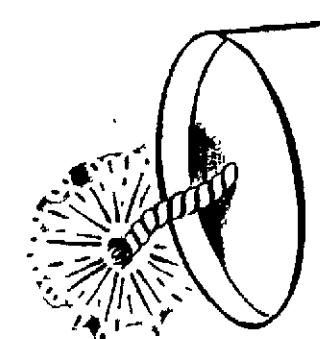

HANOVER, N. H.—(AP)—Even a museum piece can go berserk under modern traffic conditions. Gracie, a rare white rhinoceros, is a museum piece and she reverted to her jungle ways recently because of a minor highway collision.

One of 45 stuffed mammals being transported from the American Museum of Natural History in New York to the Dartmouth College Museum, Gracie buried her horn in the back of the driver's seat when the truck in which she was riding struck an oncoming automobile.

The driver found her stuck, her ears torn out by the roots. The rest of the cargo consisting of an assortment of animals was shaken up in the collision.

Indians Continue Slugfest

Collect 19 Hits For Record This Season.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians came into the capital today to try their suddenly rejuvenated batting powers on the Senators.

Their current road trip stands at .500, after three losses to the Yankees and three wins from the hapless Athletics, in the last two of which they ended a long dry spell at the plate and went wild.

Yesterday's 12 to 1 victory over the Athletics, with Jim Bagby on the mound, established a new season's record for the Tribe with 19 hits. Three homers were included, making 36 hits and eight home runs for the Indians in two days.

Bill Beckman, who injured his ankle in the fourth, Bump Hadley and Luman Harris, all right handed, were unable to stop the barrage in Thursday's races around the diamond.

Except for Rollie Hemsley, who went hitless in five times at bat, all the Indians got at least two safe blows.

Bagby allowed six hits, two of them coming in the sixth, when Dee Miles' double and Frank Hayes' single saved the A's from a shutout.

Lefty Al Smith is today's hurler for Cleveland, and Sid Hudson takes the mound for Washington. The champion of the National league has to be a club that can win the close games, because that is the way they play ball in the senior circuit.

This was true of the Cincinnati Reds last year, when they won 41 games by one run, and it has been shown in many previous seasons. It is in the process of being proved again by the St. Louis Cardinals, who have had more close contests this season than any other team in the league.

They snatched a 7-6 triumph away from the Philadelphia Phillies in 11 innings yesterday in their latest exploit.

At the end of five frames the Redbirds were trailing, 5-2, and when they came to bat in the last of the ninth they still were behind, 6-5. But they worked Don Padgett around to third base and he scored on a long fly to tie the score. Then in the 11th Frank (Creepy) Crespi singled with the bases loaded for the winning run.

This kept St. Louis three games ahead of the Dodgers, who unleashed a 15-hit assault on Claude Passeau and Vance Page to whip the Chicago Cubs, 9-4.

In the only other National league game the New York Giants overpowered the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-6, with Hank Danning topping a 12-hit attack with two doubles and a triple for four runs. The New York Yankees trounced the Chicago White Sox, 7-2. The Boston Red Sox downed the Detroit Tigers, 6-4, in a free-hitting game and the Washington Senators slaughtered the St. Louis Browns, 12-0, with a 17-hit raid on three pitchers.

Joe Loafs With All His Might

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — (AP) — Barring the unforeseen, Joe Louis will make the next defense of his heavyweight championship here in September against Lou Nova, the California husky who recently forced Max Baer to quit for the second time.

They wrangled about it all day yesterday in Promoter Mike Jacobs' office, with Mike trying to talk Nova into fighting Abe Simon first, but Nova's manager, Ray Carlen, was obdurate.

One thing is certain: Louis intends to loaf with all his might during the next two months. His 13th-round victory over Billy Conn Wednesday night left him worn out and tired of fighting. The champ has been in almost constant training for the past seven months.

"Joe admits he made an almost fatal mistake in not laying off training for a couple of days last week like his trainer wanted him to," said Julian Black, a co-manager. "Joe says he knows now how he'll feel when he loses the title. He still can't quit talking about a little fellow like Conn can take punishment."

Joe's admiration for Conn is sincere. The big champion was over in Billy's corner to congratulate the game little man almost before they had finished bringing Billy around with smelling salts. Billy's manager, Johnny Ray, though near to crying, told Louis: "I didn't think you could do it, Joe, you're a great fighter." Joe said: "Thanks, Johnny. Billy is a great fighter, too."

All these things were told as the fight crowd hashed over the battle. It was agreed generally that Ray had proved himself almost as great a hero as his fighter by refusing to lay the blame on Billy for trying to slug with Louis and getting knocked out when sensible discretion would have won the title.

"It was what I wanted him to do," Johnny insisted stoutly. "I wouldn't have wanted him to win dancing around. It would have been finkel. I told him to fight the way he wanted."

Everybody within earshot knew Johnny was lying gallantly; that he had implored his hot-headed fighter to play it smart right to the end. But that Conn was flushed with battle and wouldn't listen. Ray, nevertheless, said he was as proud of Billy as if he had won.

Did Conn Hurt Louis? Look at Joe's Face

Here is a bit of action in that Billy Conn-Joe Louis heavy title fight in New York, won by Louis by a kayo in the 13th round after the Pittsburgh challenger had piled up a lead on points throughout the early rounds. Billy has just landed a left and it seems to have hurt the champion. Joe himself is getting ready to swing a left. The two meet in a return match in September.

Golfers Swing During Raids

New Rules Made For Bomb-Rocked Links.

By HARRY FERGUSON
NEW YORK — (AP) — On the happy day when the last bomb has burst on Britain I hope that someone will find time to sit down and write a footnote to history about the men who went on playing golf through the hell of war.

Now and then we get stray smatches of news of how Britons have refused to give up their golf, despite the fact that to the ordinary trials and troubles of the game have been added the possibilities of injury and sudden death.

And now Szymon Landau, an American engineer, has carried back from London a good-sized budget of news about the British golfers and how they are coping with the added hazards that the war has brought.

He stepped off the clipper with a document which was headed: "Temporary rules, 1941, for the Richmond golf course." The club is just outside London where bombings are frequent, and it has been necessary to supplement the ordinary rules of the game with these special provisions.

"1. Players are asked to collect bomb and shrapnel splinters to save damage to mowing machines.

"2. In competitions during gunfire or while bombs are falling players may take cover without penalty for ceasing play.

"3. The location of known time bombs is marked at a reasonably safe distance by red flags.

"4. Shrapnel and—or bomb splinters on the fairways or in the bunkers within a club's length of the ball may be moved without penalty.

"5. A ball moved by enemy action may be replaced, or if lost or destroyed, a ball may be dropped not nearer the hole without penalty.

"6. A ball in a crater may be lifted and dropped not nearer the hole and preserving the line of the hole without penalty.

"7. A player whose stroke is affected by the simultaneous explosion of a bomb may play another ball in the same place. Penalty, one stroke."

Tennis Club to Stage Tourney

Drawings have been made for the annual tournament of the Wood Lawn Tennis club with play scheduled to start this week-end. First round matches must be completed by June 22 in singles, second round by June 27, and semi-finals by July 1.

In doubles first round matches must be completed by June 27, and semi-finals by July 2. All matches will be two out of three except finals which will be three out of five.

The pairings:
Singles—Slabaugh vs. Arnold, Stonebrook vs. Enos, Zoll vs. R. Meese, Larson vs. Bourns, Moore vs. O. Meese, Keene vs. Ellison, Gaffield vs. Obedin, and Rudolph vs. Spear.

Doubles—Bourns, Slabaugh vs. Gaffield, Stonebrook; Arnold, Zoll vs. Moore, Ellison; Rudolph, Keene, bye; Larson, Oberlin vs. Enos, Spear.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK — (The Special News Service) — Leftover hits of cauliflower: Billy Conn's been offered $25,000 to make the movie of Octavus Roy Cohen's fight story, "Kid Tinseltown." . . . Incidentally, the movies of the fight show Conn wasn't hit with a single right-hand punch through the 13 rounds so long as he kept his left hand high. . . . Louis dealt it off the arm only when the glamor boy forgot and dropped his port paw. . . . Louis' ring earnings amount to $1,987,663.96 in 54 fights in seven years—not counting the fun he's had knocking guys' ears off. . . . And in case you've forgotten, Conn turned down $200,000 just a year ago to tangle with Louis, for which he got $77,000 night before last.

Mike Jacobs had Anel Hoffman on the phone last night, trying to line up an Abe Simon-Buddy Baer brawl for Los Angeles in August. . . . now that the door's closed for either of 'em to take on Mr. Big. . . . Larry MacPhail spent $22.50 to call up Tom Sheehan, the Minneapolis manager, to find out how his Brooklyn elbowers should pitch to Coaker Trivett, the Cards' clutter from Columbus. . . . Chances are Conn'll get the call over Nova for Louis' September outing because of the gate Billy'll draw.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.
Kenneth Jones, Peoria Journal-Transcript: "How times change. Metropolitan papers are running color stories of the umpires now." (Remember the good old days when the ump's drew the running, pals?)

Two writing gents who took Conn's loss more to heart than any of 'em were our St. Feder and the New York Journal's Hype Igoe. . . . They were first to pick Billy to beat the Bomber, 'way back last winter.

As a reminder for those who said Mel Ott was all through a year ago, the "oldest white child in the Polo Grounds" has hit 17 homers so far this season, and already is only two away from his 1940 total. . . . Anel Hoffman and Mike Jacobs have cut up $35,000 as the first take on the Buddy Baer-Joe Louis fight pictures. . . . And, brothers, that ain't tin.

Blues Blanked By Louisville

Millers Beat Toledo In 10-Inning Battle.

(By Associated Press)
The Kansas City Blues, expert purveyors of whitewash, got a dose of their own medicine last night and it cost them the top spot in the American Association.

The Blues had shut out the opposition three games in the last four until Louisville's Tex Hughson took charge and blanked the leaders with a five-hitter for a 4 to 0 victory.

The Kansas City defeat enabled Minneapolis to move into first place again and dropped the Blues into a second place tie with Louisville on a won-lost basis.

The Millers had a terrific struggle before turning back Toledo, 5 to 4, in 10 innings.

Ken Rallensberger handcuffed Columbus with six hits to give St. Paul a 5 to 1 victory. Gil English lapped a home run in the eighth after the game was sewed up.

The loss dropped the Redbirds two full games back of Minneapolis and a game and a half behind Louisville and Kansas City.

Seventh-place Indianapolis fell before Milwaukee's cellar club twice, 4 to 3 and 7 to 2.

Riggs Declares War on McNeill

CHICAGO — (AP) — They're using only tennis rackets as weapons, but serious tilt. Bobby Riggs is out to "get" Don McNeill, king of the nation's amateur netters.

McNeill, the Oklahoma City blond now living in Gambier, O., toppled Riggs from the clay courts three years ago and went on from there to supplant him as the national champion, doing it all in highly impressive fashion.

Riggs, a grim competitor now instead of a frolicking performer, tipped his plans yesterday in disposing of Bill Reedy, Beverly Hills, Calif., in three sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

McNeill, aware of the Riggs menace, is playing his usual steady game. He joined Riggs in the semifinals yesterday by defeating Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., 6-3, 6-4, 6-1. He faced Frank Barker, Spring Lake, N. J., the 1939 champion, today while Riggs was idle.

The N. and W. Coal softball club will entertain the Nevada Merchants at Prospect park Sunday at 2 p. m.

Teams in Mansfield or vicinity wishing games with the Coalmen should contact Robert Parr, 181½ West Fifth street; telephone 2062-3.

RUMORED MARRIAGE STIRS FIGHTDOM

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Billy Conn, the boxer, and Mary Louise Smith, his 18-year-old blond sweetheart, visited a Catholic priest last night but whether the visit had anything to do with a wedding was anybody's guess. There were reports, rumors and denials on all sides.

Elks Retain B-Loop Lead

Bissman's Take Second Place, One Point Back.

Elks retained leadership of the News-Journal B league golf race at Possum Run last evening with a 4 to 1 victory over News-Journal, but Bissman's jumped into second place only one point off the pace with a 5 to 0 shutout of City News.

Central Fruit climbed into a third place tie with a 4 to 1 win over Tinkey Lumber, and Tucker's Furniture edged Moose 3 to 2.

The only extra hole match went to the 12th greened by Bud Houston nudged Gil Hiett out of the picture.

Medal honors were divided on 39 cards turned in by Wayne Anthony, Merle Spurgeon, Adam Brandt, and Hugh Ferguson.

LITTLE PAT TAKES FREE-FOR-ALL

MARION — (AP) — Little Pat, owned by Homer D. Bierys, won the $1,000 free-for-all pace last night at the Ohio Short Ship harness racing meet. Little Pat won in straight heats and defeated a field of four two-minute record pacers.

Bierys' Star, with Gerald Maher up, paced his 74th mile in 2:05 or better over a half mile track when he won the second heat in 2:03 3/4 to defeat FRG by a head in a driving finish.

Golf Feud Flares at Inverness

Giants Bulla, Guldahl Demand Good Referee.

By FRITZ HOWELL

TOLEDO (AP)—Big time golf's current feud—between giant Johnny Bulla of Chicago and Ralph Guldahl of California—flared into the open again today as Bulla demanded a "referee with a stop watch" to handle their third-round match in the $7,000 Inverness invitational round-robin four-ball classic.

The scrap between the two big boys started in April, during the Asheville, N. C., open, when Bulla "picked up" and walked off the course. He was paired with Guldahl in that medal play test and declared the deliberate play of the former two-time national open king was too trying for him to put forth his best effort.

Since then, Guldahl and Bulla have not spoken to each other.

"I guess I'm stuck with the job of refereeing the match," Tournament Manager Fred Corcoran said, "but I'd rather have Jack Dempsey or Arthur Donovan in there in my place."

This is the first time the two men have been matched since the memorable day down in Asheville. Corcoran said he tried to pour a bit of oil on troubled waters by interviewing each player, but he quoted Guldahl as saying, "Bulla hasn't apologized to me for that trick at Asheville, but I'll go ahead with the match."

Then Bulla came up with his demand for a referee, which brought from Corcoran the remark:

"Can you imagine me in there refereeing a match between two guys who are better than six feet three inches tall, and weigh more than 225 pounds each?"

In yesterday's opening round Bulla and his partner, Sam Byrd, former New York Yankee outfielder, barged into the lead in the race for $2,000 top money by beating Henry Picard and Johnny Revolva three up.

Rams Retain Flinger Hall
Parker Gets 3-A Rating In Selective Service.

By LARRY HAUCK
CLEVELAND (AP)—Parker Hall, the Cleveland Rams' ace triple-threat star who was voted the most valuable player in the National Football league in 1940, said today he had been classified 3-A in the selective service.

Word that the sensational passer will be back with the team gives the new owners, who have finally decided to keep the Rams penned here, their best break since purchasing the club.

Hall was married only last fall and currently is in a sales-training course at the National Sewing and Manufacturing Co. offices.

Most of the 1941 plans for the club, including the schedule, have been held up pending completion of details surrounding the sale to Dan Reeves of New York and Fred Levy Jr. of Louisville.

The opener with Pittsburgh, slated for mid-September, may be played in Akron's new 35,000-seated Rubber Bowl.

Cleveland officials are considering moving the games from 80,000-capacity Municipal stadium to League park, which holds 23,000.

AFTER NEW RECORDS
AKRON, O.—(INS)—Stella Walsh, Cleveland track star who already holds 61 world and national records for women, will attempt to add one more to her collection tomorrow night in the Northeastern Ohio A. A. U. track and field championships in the Akron Rubber Bowl.

FORT PIERCE, Fla.—Organized baseball's only active father-and-son combination is helping Fort Pierce set a swift pace in the Class D Florida East Coast League.

Manager Jim Poole Sr., who "admits to 40 years" and says no more about his age, holds down first base and adds punch to the Bombers with a .333 batting average.

Jim Poole Jr., 22, fields brilliantly at shortstop or second base, while 17-year-old Phil won the first three complete games he was called upon to pitch.

In some 25 years of ball playing, Poole has seen service in the American, Pacific Coast and Southern leagues. He stuck with the Philadelphia Athletics for three years. Playing with Nashville in 1929, he set the Southern Association home run record at 50 for the season.

His ambitions now are for his sons.

"When I can get them in there regularly, able to keep the pace," he explains, "then I may hang up the old glove. That's why I'm sticking in there, at my age—trying to get them started right."

Both youths are being brought along slowly.

"Phil's a little young yet for steady pitching," his father says, "and he has a lot to learn." But observers around the circuit are predicting a real future for the little right-hander with the easy pitching motion.

JOE HEVING INJURED
CLEVELAND (INS)—Joe Heving, the Cleveland Indians' veteran relief pitcher, was back home today resting a sprained ligament in his right knee—the costly result of his victory over Philadelphia Tuesday night in his first starting assignment of the season.

DENTAL DRILLS TO ALLAY PAIN

New Instruments Will Be Distributed To Dental Colleges.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Thomas G. Donovan, geophysicist, is completing plans for a workshop here which will produce revolutionary dental equipment and a radium-detecting instrument destined for war-time use.

Donovan's project has the backing of a group of gem experts, mechanical engineers and physicists who plan to distribute the dental instruments to colleges in this country for use in dental courses.

"It is not the intention of the group to engage in a money-making venture at such a critical time in history," Donovan explained.

The sensitive instrument for locating minute quantities of radium will be offered to units specially trained in the technique of its use, he said.

The dental tools will be used for preparing teeth for crowns and Deluxe Comedy.

Patrick barges along and jealousy rears its head. To prevent Myrna from obtaining a divorce, Powell feigns lunacy and almost gets himself locked up for good. Jack Conway, who guided the pair through "Labeled Lady," directed. Sidney Blackmer, Sig Ruman and Sara Haden are in the cast.

Birth of Broadcasting.
"The Great American Broadcast," a gala musical show depicting how broadcasting was born, opens Saturday at the Madison with a galaxy of entertainment headed by Alice Faye and Jack Oakie in the leading roles. Dealing with four people through whose efforts a nation-wide hook-up was realized, the picture shows the trials and disappointments of the pioneers in broadcasting. John Payne and Cesar Romero are cast, also the Wiere Brothers, the Four Ink Spots and the Nicholas Brothers. Robert Sterling and Marsha Hunt in "I'll Wait For You," is the second attraction.

Horror Bill.
The double horror-bill continues at the Ritz. Ellen Drew is the girl in both cases, "The Monster and the Girl" and "The Mad Doctor." Paul Lukas and Joseph Calleja furnish the chills in "The Monster," while Basil Rathbone provides them in "The Mad Doctor."

Scattergood Pulls the Strings.
The absurdity of pomp and circumstance is revealed in Charlie Chaplin's "The Great Dictator," at the Park. It reaches its height in the scene between Chaplin as Hynkel, the bombastic dictator, and his nearest rival, Napaloni, played by Jack Oakie. Napaloni puts Hynkel in his place by ignoring him. Flavored with the current world situation in which the little people fall by the wayside, "The Great Dictator," through George Houston in "The Lone Rider in Ghost Town," is the co-attraction.

Racket Exposed.

FALLS IN SEA, FINDS A WIFE

Nebraska Man Falls Off Ship, Discovers Future Mate Behind Camera Lens.

OMAHA, Neb., June 19.—Matthew Thompson, Omaha insurance man, wants to meet the Nebraska seaman who in 1934 left a gangway unfastened on the American merchant marine ship, Santa Clara.

Because of the seaman's carelessness, Thompson splashed in the shark-infested waters of the Caribbean for a half hour and found himself a wife.

He didn't find his wife-to-be in the water, however, but on deck with a candid camera when he was hauled back into the ship.

Thompson at the time was the ship's purser and he was pretty peeved. When Mildred Whitten, a Coon Rapids, Ia., girl on board for a vacation trip to South America, tried to take his picture he brushed her angrily aside.

That night he apologized to her, struck up an acquaintance, and a month later they were married.

He knows the seaman who caused his plunge into the Caribbean and matrimonial seas was from Lincoln or Omaha, Neb., but that's all Thompson wants to thank him for his forgetfulness.

TESTING SITE

Camp Perry To Be Used For Testing Artillery.

CAMP PERRY, O.—INS.—The Camp Perry area on Lake Erie, used generally for Ohio National Guard Troop maneuvers and the national rifle and pistol championships, soon will echo to the boom of big guns as the army's

Until the national defense program got under full steam, the army's sole artillery proving ground was at Aberdeen, Md. However, the expansion of arms-producing facilities has made another testing ground an imperative need, and the Camp Perry site was selected.

A fan-shaped area extending 10 miles out into Lake Erie has been closed to navigation as the medium and big guns are brought to the district for their tests.

DENTAL DRILLS TO ALLAY PAIN

New Instruments Will Be Distributed To Dental Colleges.

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Thomas G. Donovan, geophysicist, is completing plans for a workshop here which will produce revolutionary dental equipment and a radium-detecting instrument destined for war-time use.

Donovan's project has the backing of a group of gem experts, mechanical engineers and physicists who plan to distribute the dental instruments to colleges in this country for use in dental courses.

"It is not the intention of the group to engage in a money-making venture at such a critical time in history," Donovan explained.

The sensitive instrument for locating minute quantities of radium will be offered to units specially trained in the technique of its use, he said.

The dental tools will be used for preparing teeth for crowns and Deluxe Comedy.

William Powell and Myrna Loy, the screen's "most perfect married couple," are at it again in "Love Crazy," comedy deluxe, opening Saturday at the Ohio. Matrimonial sailing is smooth until Gail

Patrick barges along and jealousy rears its head. To prevent Myrna from obtaining a divorce, Powell feigns lunacy and almost gets himself locked up for good. Jack Conaway, who guided the pair through "Libeled Lady," directed. Sidney Blackmer, Sig Ruman and Sara Haden are in the cast.

Birth of Broadcasting.

"The Great American Broadcast," a gala musical show depicting how broadcasting was born, opens Saturday at the Madison with a galaxy of entertainment headed by Alice Faye and Jack Oakie in the leading roles. Dealing with four people through whose efforts a nation-wide hook-up was realized, the picture shows the trials and disappointments of the pioneers in broadcasting. John Payne and Cesar Romero are cast, also the Wiere Brothers, the Four Ink Spots and the Nicholas Brothers. Robert Sterling and Marsha Hunt in "I'll Wait For You," is the second attraction.

Horror Bill.

The double horror-bill continues at the Ritz. Ellen Drew is the girl in both cases, "The Monster and the Girl," and "The Mad Doctor." Paul Lukas and Joseph Callela furnish the chills in "The Monster," while Basil Rathbone provides them in "The Mad Doctor."

Absurdity of Pomp.

The absurdity of pomp and circumstance is revealed in Charlie Chaplin's "The Great Dictator," at the Park. It reaches its height in the scene between Chaplin as Hynek, the bombastic dictator, and his nearest rival, Napaloni, played by Jack Oakie. Napaloni puts Hynek in his place by ignoring him. Flavored with the current world situation in which the little people fall by the wayside, "The Great Dictator," through Chaplin, makes a plea for peace. Paulette Goddard, Henry Daniell, and Maurice Moscovitch are cast.

"The Trail Blazers," is the co-attraction.

Racket Exposed.

Exposing the tourist camp racket that uses young girls as decoys, "Under Age," opening today at the Majestic, furnishes an action-packed vehicle for a group of young players. The picture paints the tragedies that befall these girls when they try to escape from a blackmail ring and shows how a gang-buster goes about abolishing it. Nan Grey, Alan Baxter and Mary Anderson are featured. George Houston in "The Lone Rider in Ghost Town," is the co-attraction.

FALLS IN SEA, FINDS A WIFE

Nebraska Man Falls Off Ship, Discovers Future Mate Behind Camera Lens.

OMAHA, Neb.—(U.S.)—Matthew Thompson, Omaha insurance man, wants to meet the Nebraska seaman who in 1934 left a gangway unfastened on the American merchant marine ship, Santa Clara.

Because of the seaman's carelessness, Thompson splashed in the shark-infested waters of the Caribbean for a half hour and found himself a wife.

He didn't find his wife-to-be in the water, however, but on deck with a candid camera when he was hauled back into the ship.

Thompson at the time was the ship's purser and he was pretty peeved. When Mildred Whitten, a Coon Rapids, Ia., girl on board for a vacation trip to South America, tried to take his picture he brushed her angrily aside.

That night he apologized to her, struck up an acquaintance, and a month later they were married.

He knows the seaman who caused his plunge into the Caribbean and matrimonial seas was from Lincoln or Omaha, Neb., but that's all. Thompson wants to thank him for his forgetfulness.

Screen Actor Gets 60 Days on Drunk Charge

Hailed into Beverly Hills, Cal., court on an intoxication charge, Character Actor Warren Hymer is shown before Judge Cecil D. Holland who sentenced him to six months in jail and then suspended the sentence with the exception of 60 days. Hymer pleaded guilty to the charge. Center, Mrs. Hymer.

TESTING SITE

Camp Perry To Be Used For Testing Artillery.

CAMP PERRY, O.—(U.S.)—The Camp Perry area on Lake Erie, used generally for Ohio National Guard Troop maneuvers and the national rifle and pistol championships, soon will echo to the boom of big guns as the army's Erie Ordnance Depot is transformed into an artillery testing grounds.

Until the national defense program got under full steam, the army's sole artillery proving ground was at Aberdeen, Md. However, the expansion of arms-producing facilities has made another testing ground an imperative need, and the Camp Perry site was selected.

SHOWS BOOST IN ATTENDANCE

School Report Indicates Jump Of More Than 2 Per Cent In Month's Figures.

Attendance in Mansfield schools for the final month of the term averaged 93.2 per cent, an increase of 2.2 per cent over the figures for April, according to principals' reports for May.

Attendance honors went to the West Fifth street school which reported an average of 96.5 per cent. Johnny Appleseed Junior high school was second with 95.7 per cent, and John Simpson Junior high was third with 95.6 per cent.

During May 2,736 pupils were neither absent nor tardy, a gain of 378 over the preceding month. Tardiness in May dropped to 532 cases from 650 in April, the reports showed. Truancy increased, however, with 79 cases reported last month as compared to 57 in April.

Truancy was highest in Senior high school and the two Junior high schools. They reported 57 of the 79 cases. Senior high topped them all with 33. Senior high also reported 193 cases of tardiness, more than any other.

British Claim Nazis Execute Polish Women

Purporting to show part of the alleged atrocities committed by the German conquerors against subject Poles, this picture was released by the British press service. The British say that these Polish women are being led by German Gestapo agents into the Palmiry woods in Poland for execution.

GREATER GAIN

County Sales Tax Receipts 60 Per Cent Over '40.

Showing an increase of nearly 60 per cent over the corresponding week last year, Richland county sales tax collections for the first week of June amounted to $19,815, one of the highest weekly totals on record in the county.

Receipts for the opening week of June, 1940, were $12,470. Collections in the county so far this year total $803,470, or $65,949 greater than for the corresponding period last year.

State collections to date amount to $24,866,751, an increase of $4,892,000 ahead of the first five months of 1940.

PUTS OUT FIRE

SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Donald McDonald, 32, rivalled the little Dutch boy who plugged a leaking dike with his hand until help came.

When gasoline ignited in a 1,750-gallon gasoline tank, he threw his body across a vent from which flames were spouting and checked it until a night watchman was able to "cap" it. Both were treated for burned hands, faces and shock.
